Grads Warned Against Being 'Burnt Matches'

Challenging his listeners not to become "burnt matches," Dr. Harvey C. Hahn Thursday evening urged the 1950 Circleville high school graduating class to "be the one person in ten who has a definite program in life."

The Dayton minister, long a community leader in the Gem City, declared that economists believe the era is not too far away when the age group of 40 to 60 constitutes the "burnt match" group—the mass of the unemployed.

He told the 67 youngsters who received their diplomas ending their high school careers, that surveys in Dayton made among both high school pupils and adults showed that:

1. Six out of ten had no program for their lives.

2. Three out of ten had a program, but had developed no technique for realization.

3. Only one out of ten had a program and a practical technique for development.

Questioning of adults in Group 1, who become the "burnt matches," revealed they anticipated the government would provide all necessities.

• • •

FURTHER questioning showed that among the adults, Group 3, for the most part, already included the leaders of the community.

Dr. Hahn soundly rapped the "individual who is a slacker, clock-watcher and the person who refuses to give a little for the dollar he earns."

The Daytonian declared that they are like baseball players described by the great Rogers Hornsby, one of the first names placed in the Hall of Fame.

The great slugger defined the difference between a .200 hitter and a .300 hitter as:

"A .200 hitter steps back when the ball is pitched, strikes late and connects poorly. The .300 hitter steps forward into the ball, meets it squarely and always gives the opponent a run for his money."

The Dayton cleric said the same applies to any profession: the individual has the choice of becoming either a bush leaguer or a major leaguer—all depending on whether he steps back or steps forward to meet the pitch.

Declaring that "the average American today is trying to see how much he can get for the least he puts out," the speaker pointed out that:

"In every church, school, lodge and club, you will find that only a handful of people carry the load. The rest of the people stand back, criticize and do nothing.

• • •

"WHENEVER a man is elected president of an organization, people rush up, shake his hand and say 'if you ever need any help call on me' but always have an alibi when there is a job to be done."

Dr. Hahn stated:

"It's getting so, I'm afraid to get sick any more after midnight. Since the war, our doctors seem to be afraid of the night air. And their fees for Sunday calls, well. . . . . .

"I hate socialized medicine, but if these prima donnas continue to play ball as they have, they are going to be more responsible for the coming of socialized medicine than any other group."

At the same time, the Daytonian urged that "some of you graduates should become physicians and nurses."

But he urged that "you use your hands to help, not to grab and crush." He challenged "some of you girls to become hospital nurses and refuse to become industrial nurses where the pay is twice as great."

He also challenged that "some of you become teachers. Some of us parents have no idea of how to handle our own children."

And lastly, Dr. Hahn challenged "some of you young people to follow my profession—the humble and poor preacher." He explained:

"The Lord will make you humble and the congregation will keep you poor."

Four Special Awards Given Top Graduates

Four members of Circleville high school's graduating class Thursday night were singled out for signal honors.

Two received the coveted Kiwanis Achievement Awards, the other two were given special scholarships.

Receiving the Kiwanis Keys were Sue Brown and Robert McAlister.

The awards were granted after a tabulation of points for extra curricular activities during all four years of high school.

Miss Brown, active in all music and dramatic activities of the school and a drum majorette for the marching band, topped all other girls in the class. It also is a pleasing coincident to Circleville Kiwanis Club, donor of the awards, that she has been pianist for club meetings.

McAlister, also active in varied functions, topped all his extra curricular activities with duty as quarterback for last year's undefeated, untied Tiger football team.

The two scholarships, granted by Capital university, went to the class salutorian, Edward Hixenbaugh, and the valedictorian, Patricia Edgington.

Big Mauna Loa Volcano Erupts, Hawaiians Flee

HILO, June 2 — Hawaii's mighty Mauna Loa was erupting today in the mushrooming manner of an atomic explosion, and families in one district at the base of the volcano fled as mile-wide rivers of orange lava threatened their homes.

Swift-flowing streams of glowing lava poured down the volcano's flanks from three breaks in the 14,000-foot crater.

Homes in the area between the towns of Alae and Pahoehoe were ordered evacuated as one lava flow from the 7,000-foot level surged across the main highway circling the island of Hawaii and flowed into the sea.

Huge clouds of steam billowed over the water as the lava poured relentlessly into the Pacific.

Above the crater fiery smoke columns soared four miles into the air.

A livid glow visible 250 miles illuminated the skies as the massive cone heaved up its fire and ashes.

The eruption—Mauna Loa's second within the last 17 months—began at 9:20 o'clock last night (2 a. m. Friday EST) and was described by the U. S. Civil Air Patrol network as "far bigger" than the major upheaval of last year.

Reichelderfer Hearing Booked

Nelson E. Reichelderfer, former Circleville bank vice-president, will be arraigned in federal court in Columbus Monday accused of embezzling about $7,000.

The 68-year-old former official of the Circleville Savings and Banking Co. is free under $2,000 bond pending prosecution on a count of making a false entry to cover a shortage of federally insured funds.

A former state bank examiner for 11 years, Reichelderfer was arrested by FBI agents May 25. Announcement of the arraignment date was made Friday by the office of the U. S. district attorney.

Ross Countian Tells Of Loss Of $6000 Here

After waiting a week for his daughter-in-law to return with his $6,000, a Ross County man decided it was time to seek advice.

He selected Pickaway County as the place to tell his troubles, and Probate Judge George D. Young as the person to tell them to.

Explaining he just happened to be passing by and "thought he would drop in to see what could be done," the Ross Countian told Judge Young Friday that his daughter-in-law left with the money last Saturday. The judge estimated his age at 70.

"Apparently the money was in a checking account and the daughter had been drawing it out while he was in a hospital," Judge Young said.

He quoted the man as saying he was broke and unable to pay hospital bills. The judge advised him to take his complaint to Ross County prosecuting attorney. The man was not identified to local authorities.

Smuts' Condition Causes Anxiety

PRETORIA, June 2—The condition of Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, former premier of South Africa, was said today to be still "causing anxiety."

The aged marshal is suffering from pneumonia.

Members of his family were summoned to the bedside and two leading physicians were rushed by plane from Capetown. Oxygen is being used in the treatment of Smuts.

MILLIONAIRE bookie Frank Erickson is booked in a New York police station in what the district attorney's office hailed as the greatest single blow against organized gambling in 20 years. Previously, a New York grand jury had returned a 60-count criminal information against Erickson, charging him with bookmaking.

Iowan Ignores Blast At GOP By Republican

WASHINGTON, June 2—Sen. Hickenlooper, (R) Iowa, challenged a Justice Department report on the Amerasia stolen documents case today by claiming he has proof that the loot contained U. S. secrets of the highest order.

The senator said he not only has resumes but the actual file numbers of lifted documents detailing the wartime disposition of fleet units and containing secret messages from President Franklin D. Roosevelt to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The Iowan's statement was the first counter-fire to an attack by seven Senate Republicans on GOP colleagues they accuse of hurling unproved charges in the congressional vendetta over the Communist issue.

Sen. McCarthy, (R) Wis., promised another senate speech on Red infiltration into the government today but he announced that he will not take the opportunity to blast his sharpest critic among the accusing seven senators, Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

Yesterday, Senator Smith criticized her Republican colleagues for hurling "unproved charges" on the Communism issue and thereby endangering the GOP, the country and accused individuals.

The only woman member of the Senate announced in a Senate speech that she had been joined by six other Republican senators in a "declaration of conscience" repudiating such tactics.

Mrs. Smith said that the "record of the present Democratic administration" has provided "sufficient campaign issues without the necessity of resorting to political smears."

• • •

SHE SAID THE Democratic administration has lost confidence of the people by "its complacency to the threat of Communism here at home and the leak of vital secrets to Russia through key officials." But she added:

"Yet to displace it with a Republican regime embracing a philosophy that lacks political integrity or intellectual honesty would prove equally disastrous to this nation. The nation sorely needs a Republican victory, but I don't want to see the Republican Party ride to political victory on fear, ignorance, bigotry and smear."

Sen. Smith was joined by Republican Senators Tobey of New Hampshire, Aiken of Vermont, Morse of Oregon, Ives of New York, Thye of Minnesota and Hendrickson of New Jersey.

Japan Bans Open Meetings Of Communists

TOKYO, June 2—Japan's government tonight banned open-air gatherings in downtown Tokyo over the weekend and all American military police in the city were restricted to quarters in readiness for any emergency that may arise from Communist-planned demonstrations.

The U. S. Army MPs were alerted as the Japanese government, backed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, took drastic measures to forestall outbreaks during the election weekend.

A government order prohibited weekend assemblages in the center of tense Tokyo and decreed that any meetings elsewhere in Japan can be held only under the strictest police controls.

The edict also declared Hibiya Park off-limits to all Japanese from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. tomorrow, thus barring a rally of 30,000 persons which had been called by the Communist-dominated auto workers union.

The action came as hundreds of thousands of Japanese workers and students were being mobilized by Red leaders to launch walkouts and demonstrations in at least seven cities tomorrow on the eve of Sunday's elections to the diet's upper chamber.

It coincided with the closing phases of the trial of eight Japanese on charges of assaulting five uniformed Americans in Tokyo Memorial Day.

Higher Farm Trend To Hold

WASHINGTON, June 2—Agriculture observers expect the trend of higher farm prices noted in May to continue strong during June.

The Agriculture Department's farm price report for May, which took the pulse of prices farmers pay and receive from mid-April to mid-May, notes a three percent boost in the prices farmers received during that period.

The prices received index on May 15 was the highest it has been since last September. Official observers say this up-spurt will continue through the current month.

Every Penny Of Truman's Bill Needed

Acheson Outlines Europe Problem

WASHINGTON, June 2—Secretary of State Acheson told Congress today that the cost of arms aid to the North Atlantic area likely will be increased in the near future.

He said the program for arming Western Europe probably will rise in cost unless there is a "considerable change in the international climate and the actions of certain powers."

Acheson appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees to urge quick approval of the full $1,222,450,000 which President Truman has asked for the second round of the foreign military assistance program. He said:

"I don't think anyone can tell you honestly that the cost will be lowered.

"The most honest answer is that it likely will be increased. We are a long way from having an integrated force for the Atlantic.

"Unless there is a very considerable change in the international climate and the action of certain powers we may have to put more rather than less into the effort in the immediate future."

• • •

SEN. KNOWLAND, (R) Calif., raised the question of whether some countries to which the President proposes sending arms are trying to "shift defense on the budget of the United States."

Acheson replied that some of the countries are trying to increase their military budgets. He said the question was fully discussed at his London conference with Atlantic pact foreign ministers. He added:

"All of the Atlantic Pact countries were desirous of making as great an effort as they can."

Acheson said that if the Atlantic Pact nations "let down or slacken our efforts the result could well be disaster."

The secretary placed greatest emphasis on the need for aid to Southeast Asia and Japan.

But he pointed out that the "interests of the United States are global in character" and that "a threat to peace anywhere is a threat to our security."

Acheson declared that every cent of the amount asked by President Truman is needed in the Cold War against Communist aggression. He said:

"The future course of events in Southeast Asia, in the Philippines, in Korea and in Japan as well as in China proper are of great importance to the security of the United States.

"Our policy is and must be devoted to doing everything within our power to prevent the further spread of Communism.

"Vigorous, intelligent and sustained action on our part is essential to the preservation of our liberty. The program of military aid proposed by the President represents the best judgment of the executive branch at this time as to the measures in which and the extent to which we can provide military assistance effectively to support our objectives.

"Favorable action by the Congress will provide a vital element of support to the long struggle of free peoples to protect themselves from those who would enslave them."

Ohio Ranks Last Aiding Cripples

CLEVELAND, June 2 — Ohio is rated last among the 48 states in cash spent, per capita, to rehabilitate disabled men and women and help them find jobs.

Thomas G. Rathbone of the regional Federal Security Agency told the fourth industrial forum of Possibilities Unlimited here last night that only $135,000 was invested by Ohio in its disabled last year.

Rathbone said this amounts to less than 1½ cents per capita, compared with 11 cents in Michigan and seven cents in Kentucky.

Good News For Meek Men

CINCINNATI, June 2—Judge Charles S. Bell has ruled it's a mistake for a man to hand over his entire paycheck to his wife.

The Hamilton County common pleas court jurist granted a divorce to John Ismael, 52, on the ground of neglect. Judge Bell said after hearing the testimony:

"Some women don't realize that the husband is the head of the household. In my opinion, that's what happened in this case. It's a mistake for any man to turn over his entire paycheck to his wife."

Jim Stout Sells Auto Agency To Columbus Man

Announcement was being made Friday of the sale by James H. Stout of his Chrysler-Plymouth automobile agency and garage to Wes Edstrom of Columbus.

Edstrom, wholesale parts manager for 12 years for Merrick-Miller Co. in the capital city, has taken over the Stout concern and will operate without interruption.

Thus ends a career of 30-odd years for Stout as an automobile agent in Circleville.

While he retains ownership of the building on East Main street, he said Friday he has no definite plans for the future.

He declared, however, he intends to make his retirement 'stick." First thing on the agenda is a fishing trip he and Mrs. Stout will make into Canada next week.

Edstrom, meanwhile, is seeking living quarters in this city. He will continue living in Columbus until he can secure a home for Mrs. Edstrom and their two children, a son and a daughter.

An official statement of the business transaction appears on the back page of this issue of The Circleville Herald.

Patrolman OKs Spanking Lass

PAINESVILLE, June 2 — Patrolman Leon "Tiny" Debolt of Painesville is a father who believes in the old-fashioned spanking cure for wayward children.

Tiny received a call early this morning to investigate a report of domestic trouble in a Painesville home. He found that the father of a 15-year-old girl had given her a spanking when she came home after 3 a. m. The girl called police.

The husky policeman turned in this report:

"Got spanked. Needed it. OK."

572 Of County's Youths To Vie In Health Exams

41 Farm Club Groups Ready For Start Of Tests Thursday

Preliminary examinations for selection of Pickaway County's healthiest boy and girl will be offered to 572 4-H Club boys and girls beginning next Thursday.

This year's physical exams will be offered to youngsters of 41 county farm club groups.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, again will administer the annual exams this year. All examinations will be made in his offices in Pickaway Courthouse.

First clubs scheduled for the examinations are the Logan Elm Sunny Sewers at 9:30 a. m. Thursday and the Monroe Jr. and Sr. Stitchettes at 1 p. m.

Three days during the program have been set aside as "catch-ups," days when youngsters who missed the tests when their clubs were scheduled may take the exam.

The physical examination program will continue through the greater part of June and will be completed July 10 during the last "catch-up" days.

• • •

FINALS IN the selection of the county's "healthiest" boy and girl will be conducted Aug. 16, according to the schedule.

The two local 4-H'ers selected as "healthiest" will compete against the other Ohio farm club boys and girls for state honors during the 1950 Ohio State Fair.

Basis for selection of the county's top boy and girl is 25 percent for present health status; 50 percent for correction of physical or dental defects, health habits, immunizations, safety practices, improvement in home sanitation, and demonstration of good health practices; and 25 percent for the contestant's leadership in his club's health activities.

In order to participate in the final contest the boys and girls must be at least 14-years-old as of Jan. 1, 1950, and must have completed at least three years in 4-H Club activities.

The examination, however, is open to any 4-H youngster in the county, regardless of age or club experience.

Complete list of club examination dates set by the health commissioner follows:

June 8 — Logan Elm Sunny Sewers, 9:30 a. m.; Monroe Jr. and Sr. Stitchettes, 1 p. m.

June 9 — Darby Three S's, 9:30 a. m.; Darby Flying Needles, 10:30 a. m.; Scioto Hardy Workers, 1 p. m.; Buckeye Sewing Club, 2:30 p. m.

Fear Expressed That No Tax Cuts Probable

WASHINGTON, June 2—The fear of a bigger government debt raises a possibility today that the House Ways and Means Committee will abandon its efforts to draft a bill lowering federal taxes this year.

In four months of work, the group has tentatively approved tax cuts amounting to $1.104 billion—mostly in excise levies—and has partly balanced the loss with a plan for $492 million in new revenues.

The spectre of the $600 million still on the red side of the ledger, however, seems to have created a rift in the 25-man committee.

Rep. Carroll, (D) Colo., said he doubts that the group will approve a bill "with a $600 million deficit."

This brought a retort from Rep. Jenkins, (R) Ohio, his committee colleague, that possibly all the reluctance is on the Democratic side of the panel.

Another Democratic committeeman, however, predicted a bill will be approved, probably next week. He thought nine of the 10 Republican members would be willing to vote for an unbalanced bill and that enough of the 15 Democratic members would join them to provide a majority.

The committee is now reviewing the action previously taken on excise levies. There is no indication yet that any great changes will be made in the cuts already approved tentatively.

After disposing of the excise rates, the committee may tackle its main "hot potato"—corporation taxes.

Four proposals are pending to boost corporation income levies and many members are of the opinion that the bill cannot be balanced without adopting one or more of them.

FOR SIX YEARS, "Duke" has acted as "eyes" for Al Henderson, 28, a blind ceramics worker in San Bernardino, Calif. Now, the loyal 10-year-old German shepherd is going blind and veterinarians give him but two months more of sight. The Iowan's statement was the first counter-fire to an attack by seven Senate Republicans on GOP colleagues they accuse of hurling unproved charges in the congressional vendetta over the Communist issue.

Sen. McCarthy, (R) Wis., promised another senate speech on Red infiltration into the government today but he announced that he will not take the opportunity to blast his sharpest critic among the accusing seven senators, Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

Yesterday, Senator Smith criticized her Republican colleagues for hurling "unproved charges" on the Communism issue and thereby endangering the GOP, the country and accused individuals.

The only woman member of the Senate announced in a Senate speech that she had been joined by six other Republican senators in a "declaration of conscience" repudiating such tactics.

Mrs. Smith said that the "record of the present Democratic administration" has provided "sufficient campaign issues without the necessity of resorting to political smears."

• • •

SHE SAID THE Democratic administration has lost confidence of the people by "its complacency to the threat of Communism here at home and the leak of vital secrets to Russia through key officials." But she added:

"Yet to displace it with a Republican regime embracing a philosophy that lacks political integrity or intellectual honesty would prove equally disastrous to this nation. The nation sorely needs a Republican victory, but I don't want to see the Republican Party ride to political victory on fear, ignorance, bigotry and smear."

Sen. Smith was joined by Republican Senators Tobey of New Hampshire, Aiken of Vermont, Morse of Oregon, Ives of New York, Thye of Minnesota and Hendrickson of New Jersey.

Every Penny Of Truman's Bill Needed

Acheson Outlines Europe Problem

WASHINGTON, June 2—Secretary of State Acheson told Congress today that the cost of arms aid to the North Atlantic area likely will be increased in the near future.

He said the program for arming Western Europe probably will rise in cost unless there is a "considerable change in the international climate and the actions of certain powers."

Acheson appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees to urge quick approval of the full $1,222,450,000 which President Truman has asked for the second round of the foreign military assistance program. He said:

"I don't think anyone can tell you honestly that the cost will be lowered.

"The most honest answer is that it likely will be increased. We are a long way from having an integrated force for the Atlantic.

"Unless there is a very considerable change in the international climate and the action of certain powers we may have to put more rather than less into the effort in the immediate future."

• • •

SEN. KNOWLAND, (R) Calif., raised the question of whether some countries to which the President proposes sending arms are trying to "shift defense on the budget of the United States."

Acheson replied that some of the countries are trying to increase their military budgets. He said the question was fully discussed at his London conference with Atlantic pact foreign ministers. He added:

"All of the Atlantic Pact countries were desirous of making as great an effort as they can."

Acheson said that if the Atlantic Pact nations "let down or slacken our efforts the result could well be disaster."

The secretary placed greatest emphasis on the need for aid to Southeast Asia and Japan.

But he pointed out that the "interests of the United States are global in character" and that "a threat to peace anywhere is a threat to our security."

Acheson declared that every cent of the amount asked by President Truman is needed in the Cold War against Communist aggression. He said:

"The future course of events in Southeast Asia, in the Philippines, in Korea and in Japan as well as in China proper are of great importance to the security of the United States.

"Our policy is and must be devoted to doing everything within our power to prevent the further spread of Communism.

"Vigorous, intelligent and sustained action on our part is essential to the preservation of our liberty. The program of military aid proposed by the President represents the best judgment of the executive branch at this time as to the measures in which and the extent to which we can provide military assistance effectively to support our objectives.

"Favorable action by the Congress will provide a vital element of support to the long struggle of free peoples to protect themselves from those who would enslave them."

Ohio Ranks Last Aiding Cripples

CLEVELAND, June 2 — Ohio is rated last among the 48 states in cash spent, per capita, to rehabilitate disabled men and women and help them find jobs.

Thomas G. Rathbone of the regional Federal Security Agency told the fourth industrial forum of Possibilities Unlimited here last night that only $135,000 was invested by Ohio in its disabled last year.

Rathbone said this amounts to less than 1½ cents per capita, compared with 11 cents in Michigan and seven cents in Kentucky.

Good News For Meek Men

CINCINNATI, June 2—Judge Charles S. Bell has ruled it's a mistake for a man to hand over his entire paycheck to his wife.

The Hamilton County common pleas court jurist granted a divorce to John Ismael, 52, on the ground of neglect. Judge Bell said after hearing the testimony:

"Some women don't realize that the husband is the head of the household. In my opinion, that's what happened in this case. It's a mistake for any man to turn over his entire paycheck to his wife."

Jim Stout Sells Auto Agency To Columbus Man

Announcement was being made Friday of the sale by James H. Stout of his Chrysler-Plymouth automobile agency and garage to Wes Edstrom of Columbus.

Edstrom, wholesale parts manager for 12 years for Merrick-Miller Co. in the capital city, has taken over the Stout concern and will operate without interruption.

Thus ends a career of 30-odd years for Stout as an automobile agent in Circleville.

While he retains ownership of the building on East Main street, he said Friday he has no definite plans for the future.

He declared, however, he intends to make his retirement 'stick." First thing on the agenda is a fishing trip he and Mrs. Stout will make into Canada next week.

Edstrom, meanwhile, is seeking living quarters in this city. He will continue living in Columbus until he can secure a home for Mrs. Edstrom and their two children, a son and a daughter.

An official statement of the business transaction appears on the back page of this issue of The Circleville Herald.

Patrolman OKs Spanking Lass

PAINESVILLE, June 2 — Patrolman Leon "Tiny" Debolt of Painesville is a father who believes in the old-fashioned spanking cure for wayward children.

Tiny received a call early this morning to investigate a report of domestic trouble in a Painesville home. He found that the father of a 15-year-old girl had given her a spanking when she came home after 3 a. m. The girl called police.

The husky policeman turned in this report:

"Got spanked. Needed it. OK."

572 Of County's Youths To Vie In Health Exams

41 Farm Club Groups Ready For Start Of Tests Thursday

Preliminary examinations for selection of Pickaway County's healthiest boy and girl will be offered to 572 4-H Club boys and girls beginning next Thursday.

This year's physical exams will be offered to youngsters of 41 county farm club groups.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, again will administer the annual exams this year. All examinations will be made in his offices in Pickaway Courthouse.

First clubs scheduled for the examinations are the Logan Elm Sunny Sewers at 9:30 a. m. Thursday and the Monroe Jr. and Sr. Stitchettes at 1 p. m.

Three days during the program have been set aside as "catch-ups," days when youngsters who missed the tests when their clubs were scheduled may take the exam.

The physical examination program will continue through the greater part of June and will be completed July 10 during the last "catch-up" days.

• • •

FINALS IN the selection of the county's "healthiest" boy and girl will be conducted Aug. 16, according to the schedule.

The two local 4-H'ers selected as "healthiest" will compete against the other Ohio farm club boys and girls for state honors during the 1950 Ohio State Fair.

Basis for selection of the county's top boy and girl is 25 percent for present health status; 50 percent for correction of physical or dental defects, health habits, immunizations, safety practices, improvement in home sanitation, and demnostration of good health practices; and 25 percent for the contestant's leadership in his club's health activities.

In order to participate in the final contest the boys and girls must be at least 14-years-old as of Jan. 1, 1950, and must have completed at least three years in 4-H Club activities.

The examination, however, is open to any 4-H youngster in the county, regardless of age or club experience.

Complete list of club examination dates set by the health commissioner follows:

June 8 — Logan Elm Sunny Sewers, 9:30 a. m.; Monroe Jr. and Sr. Stitchettes, 1 p. m.

June 9 — Darby Three S's, 9:30 a. m.; Darby Flying Needles, 10:30 a. m.; Scioto Hardy Workers, 1 p. m.; Buckeye Sewing Club, 2:30 p. m.

Fear Expressed That No Tax Cuts Probable

WASHINGTON, June 2—The fear of a bigger government debt raises a possibility today that the House Ways and Means Committee will abandon its efforts to draft a bill lowering federal taxes this year.

In four months of work, the group has tentatively approved tax cuts amounting to $1.104 billion—mostly in excise levies—and has partly balanced the loss with a plan for $492 million in new revenues.

The spectre of the $600 million still on the red side of the ledger, however, seems to have created a rift in the 25-man committee.

Rep. Carroll, (D) Colo., said he doubts that the group will approve a bill "with a $600 million deficit."

This brought a retort from Rep. Jenkins, (R) Ohio, his committee colleague, that possibly all the reluctance is on the Democratic side of the panel.

Another Democratic committeeman, however, predicted a bill will be approved, probably next week. He thought nine of the 10 Republican members would be willing to vote for an unbalanced bill and that enough of the 15 Democratic members would join them to provide a majority.

The committee is now reviewing the action previously taken on excise levies. There is no indication yet that any great changes will be made in the cuts already approved tentatively.

After disposing of the excise rates, the committee may tackle its main "hot potato"—corporation taxes.

Four proposals are pending to boost corporation income levies and many members are of the opinion that the bill cannot be balanced without adopting one or more of them.

FOR SIX YEARS, "Duke" has acted as "eyes" for Al Henderson, 28, a blind ceramics worker in San Bernardino, Calif. Now, the loyal 10-year-old German shepherd is going blind and veterinarians give him but two months more of sight. Henderson will secure another guide dog but will continue to care for his old and proven friend.

IT'S EMPLOYERS' MARKET

Grads Told No Veep Jobs Available This Season

COLUMBUS, June 2—There are no corporation vice-presidencies open for this year's college graduates.

In fact, the job situation definitely is tougher this year than it was last, according to a survey of the placement bureaus of seven colleges at Ohio State university.

The consensus is:

"We are in an employer's market. The happy times following the war years when a graduate could be assured of an immediate position are no longer with us."

However, engineers, scientists, nurses and salesmen of manufactured items still are in strong demand with nurses leading the list.

On the other hand, things are not so bright for lawyers and journalists.

Agriculture college graduates, of course, always can go back to the farm when opportunities fail in extension work, vocational teaching, and research.

The auto industry still provides the best chance for a graduating engineer, despite the continuing demand for persons with master's and doctor's degrees in the physical sciences. Detroit also tops increased requests for technicians in the fields of television and radio.

* * *

BUT BE OF good cheer, men, on at least one point. Ohio State officials say you still are not likely to encounter much competition from the distaff side.

Take the words of Miss Lilyan Bradshaw, placement director for the college of engineering. She says:

"Employers view women as eligible for only brief spans of employment, prior to matrimony and motherhood and consequently hesitate to give them work of a nature fully commensurate with their talents. Some have fought their way through to marked success, but most have only helped to prove the employer's theory."

In other words, it's still a man's world.

But problems are different in the health field, where there are plenty of jobs. Frances McKnna, director of the school of nursing, said:

"The problem with us is to keep these young women from accepting offers which they are not prepared by experience to take."

She said the most popular field for nurses today is public health.

In journalism, the most optimistic statement which School Director James E. Pollard could make is—"better than we expected."

Dr. Pollard said most graduates are going into public relations. He reported that newspapers and radio each will absorb "only a few."

Placement Director Justin H. Folkerth of the law college reported that slightly less than half of his 38-man graduating class will have jobs and that one-third of the remaining 26 probably will find them later. Then he added:

"Many of the remainder undoubtedly will take positions in business or law-related areas."

Auto-Burning Binds Couple To Grand Jury

A Columbus man and woman are being held Friday for action by the Pickaway County grand jury on accusations of malicious destruction of property.

The pair, identified as William Graffis, 37, and his wife, Emma, of Columbus, were placed on $1,000 bond each Thursday in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root.

The Columbus couple is accused of burning a 1942 Oldsmobile, registered in the wife's name, Tuesday night along Route 762, just west of Duvall.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said he arrested the pair and another man later in South Bloomfield.

Radcliff said the other man, also from Columbus, signed a statement citing that he had heard of the plot to burn the auto. The auto was discovered burning by a farmer. It was insured.

The pair entered pleas of innocence when arraigned during the preliminary hearing. The auto was gutted by fire.

Apple Creek Dispute Ended

COLUMBUS, June 2—The controversy over payment for the new building at Apple Creek State Hospital near Wooster ended in retreat for State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson today.

Ferguson paid the general contractors, Steinle-Wolfe of Fremont, $122,443 as the final payment on the firm's bill. Previously he had held up the payment until the firm filed a mandamus suit against him in the Ohio supreme court to compel payment.

The suit was dismissed by the court with Ferguson required to pay the costs.

Dayton Woman Faces Trouble Claiming Man

DAYTON, June 2—Mrs. Mildred "Mickey" Jensen of Dayton, red-haired, attractive and 19 years old, should arrive in Chattanooga, Tenn., today to claim the man she says is her husband.

But she may have some trouble getting him back, because there may be a couple of other claimants, among them, possibly the U. S. Army.

Robert E. Jensen, 26, wandered into the Chattanooga police station last Saturday asking for relief for a headache and was placed in a hospital where he now claims to be an amnesia victim.

Mrs. Jensen of Dayton saw his picture, said he belongs to her, and took off for Chattanooga yesterday afternoon. She said her husband disappeared from a Chattanooga hotel March 9, carrying some $2,000.

Meanwhile, a Mrs. Dorothy Price Jensen of Adairsvile, Ga., has put in her claim for the man in the hospital. She said he deserted her three days after their marriage in September, 1946, and that he is AWOL from the Army.

Army records at Fort Knox, Ky., do, in fact, list a Robert E. Jensen as AWOL since last May 8.

The Dayton Mrs. Jensen claims she was married Dec. 1, 1946.

Drunk Driver Fined $100

Charles Gillman, 21, of Columbus, was fined $100 and costs Thursday in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for drunken driving.

Gillman was arrested on Route 23 south of Circleville by State Highway Patrolman Charles Watters.

Meanwhile, Merle Crosby, 38, of Watt street, was accused of drunken driving also following an accident at 9:15 p. m. Thursday on South Scioto street. Hearing will be held late Friday.

Officer Mack Wise said Crosby had been driving south on Scioto street at the time and had smashed his auto into a tree at 833 South Scioto street.

Fire Sweeps Cab Of Truck

A truck cab was hit by fire at Walnut and Court streets at about 12:05 a. m. Friday.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said the truck, owned by Myrtle Root, caught fire while gasoline was being poured into its tank.

The chief said the truck had run out of gas near the intersection and the driver had been pouring gas into the tank when the flames burst out.

The fire was put out quickly. Damage to the truck was not estimated.

Warning Control Center Erected

WASHINGTON, June 2—The nation's capital has no war jitters but Washington residents found a measure of comfort today in the news that they have a brand-new air raid warning control center.

A multiple-switch telephone with lines to aircraft plotting centers has been installed in a precinct police station as part of a new civil defense program.

Take the words of Miss Lilyan Bradshaw, placement director for the college of engineering. She says:

"Employers view women as eligible for only brief spans of employment, prior to matrimony and motherhood and consequently hesitate to give them work of a nature fully commensurate with their talents. Some have fought their way through to marked success, but most have only helped to prove the employer's theory."

In other words, it's still a man's world.

But problems are different in the health field, where there are plenty of jobs. Frances McKnna, director of the school of nursing, said:

"The problem with us is to keep these young women from accepting offers which they are not prepared by experience to take."

She said the most popular field for nurses today is public health.

In journalism, the most optimistic statement which School Director James E. Pollard could make is—"better than we expected."

Dr. Pollard said most graduates are going into public relations. He reported that newspapers and radio each will absorb "only a few."

Placement Director Justin H. Folkerth of the law college reported that slightly less than half of his 38-man graduating class will have jobs and that one-third of the remaining 26 probably will find them later. Then he added:

"Many of the remainder undoubtedly will take positions in business or law-related areas."

Auto-Burning Binds Couple To Grand Jury

A Columbus man and woman are being held Friday for action by the Pickaway County grand jury on accusations of malicious destruction of property.

The pair, identified as William Graffis, 37, and his wife, Emma, of Columbus, were placed on $1,000 bond each Thursday in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root.

The Columbus couple is accused of burning a 1942 Oldsmobile, registered in the wife's name, Tuesday night along Route 762, just west of Duvall.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said he arrested the pair and another man later in South Bloomfield.

Radcliff said the other man, also from Columbus, signed a statement citing that he had heard of the plot to burn the auto. The auto was discovered burning by a farmer. It was insured.

The pair entered pleas of innocence when arraigned during the preliminary hearing. The auto was gutted by fire.

Apple Creek Dispute Ended

COLUMBUS, June 2—The controversy over payment for the new building at Apple Creek State Hospital near Wooster ended in retreat for State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson today.

Ferguson paid the general contractors, Steinle-Wolfe of Fremont, $122,443 as the final payment on the firm's bill. Previously he had held up the payment until the firm filed a mandamus suit against him in the Ohio supreme court to compel payment.

The suit was dismissed by the court with Ferguson required to pay the costs.

Dayton Woman Faces Trouble Claiming Man

DAYTON, June 2—Mrs. Mildred "Mickey" Jensen of Dayton, red-haired, attractive and 19 years old, should arrive in Chattanooga, Tenn., today to claim the man she says is her husband.

But she may have some trouble getting him back, because there may be a couple of other claimants, among them, possibly the U. S. Army.

Robert E. Jensen, 26, wandered into the Chattanooga police station last Saturday asking for relief for a headache and was placed in a hospital where he now claims to be an amnesia victim.

Mrs. Jensen of Dayton saw his picture, said he belongs to her, and took off for Chattanooga yesterday afternoon. She said her husband disappeared from a Chattanooga hotel March 9, carrying some $2,000.

Meanwhile, a Mrs. Dorothy Price Jensen of Adairsvile, Ga., has put in her claim for the man in the hospital. She said he deserted her three days after their marriage in September, 1946, and that he is AWOL from the Army.

Army records at Fort Knox, Ky., do, in fact, list a Robert E. Jensen as AWOL since last May 8.

The Dayton Mrs. Jensen claims she was married Dec. 1, 1946.

Drunk Driver Fined $100

Charles Gillman, 21, of Columbus, was fined $100 and costs Thursday in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for drunken driving.

Gillman was arrested on Route 23 south of Circleville by State Highway Patrolman Charles Watters.

Meanwhile, Merle Crosby, 38, of Watt street, was accused of drunken driving also following an accident at 9:15 p. m. Thursday on South Scioto street. Hearing will be held late Friday.

Officer Mack Wise said Crosby had been driving south on Scioto street at the time and had smashed his auto into a tree at 833 South Scioto street.

Fire Sweeps Cab Of Truck

A truck cab was hit by fire at Walnut and Court streets at about 12:05 a. m. Friday.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said the truck, owned by Myrtle Root, caught fire while gasoline was being poured into its tank.

The chief said the truck had run out of gas near the intersection and the driver had been pouring gas into the tank when the flames burst out.

The fire was put out quickly. Damage to the truck was not estimated.

Warning Control Center Erected

WASHINGTON, June 2—The nation's capital has no war jitters but Washington residents found a measure of comfort today in the news that they have a brand-new air raid warning control center.

A multiple-switch telephone with lines to aircraft plotting centers has been installed in a precinct police station as part of a new civil defense program.

Efficiency In Steel Feared Lost

Spokesman Warns Changes Needed

NEW YORK, June 2—Walter S. Tower, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, has warned that the efficiency of the steel industry can be impaired or destroyed unless essential changes alter the direction of official thinking and public attitude.

Tower told the 58th general meeting of the institute that the steel industry must continue to provide much of the strength in the economy of this nation, which he termed the only strong bulwark of non-Communist civilization.

However, the institute head stressed that if the ability to support peoples is to operate freely in this country, certain changes from recent tendencies are essential, especially as they bear on the future effectiveness of the steel industry.

Tower listed the required changes as follows:

First, less of government attacks on industry, more acceptance of the importance of industry to national welfare.

Second, less effort to limit or to siphon off the profits of industry, more appreciation of the twin facts that only profitable industry can be healthy and grow and that healthy growth is the way to more jobs at good wages.

• • •

THIRD, LESS pretense that there is some special merit in small size, more realization that both the size of this country and the habits of its people require big industry with expensive equipment and great capital resources.

Fourth, less lip service to the 'little man,' more honest intention to give small ventures a fair chance to survive and grow.

Fifth, less weight of government thrown to the support of labor leaders' demands, more consideration for private capital which has provided the tools for fabulous productivity.

Sixth, less desire to get the hand of government into the affairs of industry, more recognition of what private enterprise and able management have contributed in the progress and strength of this nation.

Mahaffey Gets Top Post In Ashville Church

C. E. Mahaffey was elected as new general superintendent of Ashville Methodist church school during recent officer elections.

The new superintendent replaces Eugene Borror, last year's superviser.

Other officers elected to posts in the school were Stanley Stout, adult superintendent; S. E. Duvall, assistant adult superintendent; Edwin Zwayer, youth superintendent; Mrs. Ralph Cloud, children's superintendent; Peggy Essick, secretary; Catherine Williams, assistant secretary; Mrs. Charles Trone, treasurer; Mrs. Glenn Bickel, assistant treasurer.

Nancy Hedges, pianist; Mrs. Franklin Smith, assistant pianist; Mrs. Stanley Beckett, home department; Mrs. Walter Harris, cradle roll; Nina Rose Purcell, secretary of literature; and Carole Six and Katie Cromley, librarians.

The new officers will assume their posts this Sunday.

2,043 State Wards Have TB

COLUMBUS, June 2—Mental Hygiene Commissioner Calvin L. Baker reported today that 2,043 of the 30,800 patients in state mental institutions at the beginning of the year were tubercular.

Dr. Baker's statements were contained in a report on the progress of a tuberculosis control program started by the welfare department in 1948 when there were a large number of tuberculosis deaths in state institutions.

The report was filed almost simultaneously with the departure of Dr. Arnold B. Kurlander, who has been in charge of the control program and who has been on loan for the last three years from the U. S. Public Health Service.

Canada Finds Bogus Money

TORONTO, June 2 — Royal Canadian mounted police have seized $20,000 in counterfeit $10 bills believed printed in Buffalo by an international ring and intended for distribution in the Winnipeg flood zone.

The seizure was made in a Toronto hotel and three men were arrested. Police say the international counterfeiting ring was broken by recent raids in Buffalo, but that a number of its agents still are operating in Canada and the U. S.

Efficiency In Steel Feared Lost

Spokesman Warns Changes Needed

NEW YORK, June 2—Walter S. Tower, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, has warned that the efficiency of the steel industry can be impaired or destroyed unless essential changes alter the direction of official thinking and public attitude.

Tower told the 58th general meeting of the institute that the steel industry must continue to provide much of the strength in the economy of this nation, which he termed the only strong bulwark of non-Communist civilization.

However, the institute head stressed that if the ability to support peoples is to operate freely in this country, certain changes from recent tendencies are essential, especially as they bear on the future effectiveness of the steel industry.

Tower listed the required changes as follows:

First, less of government attacks on industry, more acceptance of the importance of industry to national welfare.

Second, less effort to limit or to siphon off the profits of industry, more appreciation of the twin facts that only profitable industry can be healthy and grow and that healthy growth is the way to more jobs at good wages.

• • •

THIRD, LESS pretense that there is some special merit in small size, more realization that both the size of this country and the habits of its people require big industry with expensive equipment and great capital resources.

Fourth, less lip service to the 'little man,' more honest intention to give small ventures a fair chance to survive and grow.

Fifth, less weight of government thrown to the support of labor leaders' demands, more consideration for private capital which has provided the tools for fabulous productivity.

Sixth, less desire to get the hand of government into the affairs of industry, more recognition of what private enterprise and able management have contributed in the progress and strength of this nation.

Mahaffey Gets Top Post In Ashville Church

C. E. Mahaffey was elected as new general superintendent of Ashville Methodist church school during recent officer elections.

The new superintendent replaces Eugene Borror, last year's superviser.

Other officers elected to posts in the school were Stanley Stout, adult superintendent; S. E. Duvall, assistant adult superintendent; Edwin Zwayer, youth superintendent; Mrs. Ralph Cloud, children's superintendent; Peggy Essick, secretary; Catherine Williams, assistant secretary; Mrs. Charles Trone, treasurer; Mrs. Glenn Bickel, assistant treasurer.

Nancy Hedges, pianist; Mrs. Franklin Smith, assistant pianist; Mrs. Stanley Beckett, home department; Mrs. Walter Harris, cradle roll; Nina Rose Purcell, secretary of literature; and Carole Six and Katie Cromley, librarians.

The new officers will assume their posts this Sunday.

2,043 State Wards Have TB

COLUMBUS, June 2—Mental Hygiene Commissioner Calvin L. Baker reported today that 2,043 of the 30,800 patients in state mental institutions at the beginning of the year were tubercular.

Dr. Baker's statements were contained in a report on the progress of a tuberculosis control program started by the welfare department in 1948 when there were a large number of tuberculosis deaths in state institutions.

The report was filed almost simultaneously with the departure of Dr. Arnold B. Kurlander, who has been in charge of the control program and who has been on loan for the last three years from the U. S. Public Health Service.

Canada Finds Bogus Money

TORONTO, June 2 — Royal Canadian mounted police have seized $20,000 in counterfeit $10 bills believed printed in Buffalo by an international ring and intended for distribution in the Winnipeg flood zone.

The seizure was made in a Toronto hotel and three men were arrested. Police say the international counterfeiting ring was broken by recent raids in Buffalo, but that a number of its agents still are operating in Canada and the U. S.

Yearly Soil Parley Set For August

Top-Notch Speaker Booked For Event

COLUMBUS, June 2 — Dr. W. T. Spanton, chief of the agricultural education service, U. S. Office of Education for the last nine years, will be principal speaker at Ohio's third annual soil conservation awards luncheon in Southern hotel here Aug. 31.

Arthur C. Horrocks, former president and chairman of the board of the National Association of Foremen, will be toastmaster at the luncheon for the third straight year.

Dr. Spanton's career as an educator began with his service as a teacher of agriculture and science in the public schools of Ohio, immediately following his graduation from Ohio State university in 1916.

Subsequently, he was employed as state supervisor and teacher trainer in agricultural education for Rhode Island, the first person to occupy the position in that State. Later he became supervisor of agricultural education and high-school inspector for the state of Missouri. It was from the latter position that he was called to service with the Federal Board for Vocational Education.

Before appointment to his present post in 1941, Dr. Spanton was federal agent for agricultural education in the Pacific region for 16 years.

* * *

A NATIVE OHIOAN, Dr. Spanton spent his early life on a farm near Harrison. He received his high-school education in the Harrison high school. He holds the degrees of bachelor of arts and bachelor of science in agriculture from Ohio State, master of arts degree from Brown university, and degree of doctor of philosophy from American university.

More than 250 Ohio farmers and soil conservation district governing body members are expected to attend the Columbus luncheon.

The three outstanding farmers and the five members of the governing body of the outstanding district of the state, will be awarded all-expense, one-week vacation tours to Goodyear Farms, Litchfield Park, Arizona, at the luncheon. The actual trip to Arizona will be in December.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad put out the first railroad timetable in 1830.

GOP Reports All Is Harmony

WASHINGTON, June 2 — The GOP revolt against Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson appears ended today in a new era of harmony between the national committee and Republican leaders on Capitol Hill.

Congressional sources say Gabrielson will remain in charge of Republican headquarters for the coming campaign. A series of changes in campaign tactics, inaugurated by Gabrielson in the last month, brought about an armistice to cover next November's elections.

REA Opening Up Annual Drive

WASHINGTON, June 2 — The Rural Electrification Administration has begun its annual drive to push through country power loans. It approved 22 loans totalling $7,482,000 last week.

An REA spokesman says the sudden scramble to clear the loans is usual near the end of the business year which ends June 30.

He says that cooperatives waiting beyond the usual limit for word on loan applications should hold on a little bit longer.

Churchmen Rap Legal Numbers

CLEVELAND, June 2 — Religious leaders from Cleveland's east side are spearheading an attack today against an ordinance to legalize the possession of numbers slips.

A campaign to oppose the proposed ordinance was organized last night in Central Avenue Baptist church.

Pastor Wade McKinney called on those attending the meeting to be present, and to urge others to attend when city council considers the ordinance Monday night.

Jersey Limits Truck Loads

TRENTON, N. J., June 2 — Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll has signed a bill to limit the weight of trucks traveling through New Jersey and increasing registration fees on such vehicles by approximately $2 million.

The new statute was opposed by trucking companies during its course through the legislature. It fixes weight limits of single axle trucks at 22,400 pounds. Tandem trucks would be allowed to carry a maximum of 32,000 pounds under the provisions of the new law, which is effective Jan. 1 next.

New GE Lamp Kills Odors

CLEVELAND, June 2—People may soon be able to turn on a "clean smell" as easily as they now turn on the light.

In fact, according to officials of General Electric Co., they will be able to do both at the same time by means of a small deodorizing lamp bulb.

The lamp, introduced by the company's Cleveland lamp department, gives off concentrations of ozone, a form of oxygen, which make the presence of odors less perceptible.

Ozone lamps are being built into dryers, refrigerators and beverage vending machines.

Yearly Soil Parley Set For August

Top-Notch Speaker Booked For Event

COLUMBUS, June 2 — Dr. W. T. Spanton, chief of the agricultural education service, U. S. Office of Education for the last nine years, will be principal speaker at Ohio's third annual soil conservation awards luncheon in Southern hotel here Aug. 31.

Arthur C. Horrocks, former president and chairman of the board of the National Association of Foremen, will be toastmaster at the luncheon for the third straight year.

Dr. Spanton's career as an educator began with his service as a teacher of agriculture and science in the public schools of Ohio, immediately following his graduation from Ohio State university in 1916.

Subsequently, he was employed as state supervisor and teacher trainer in agricultural education for Rhode Island, the first person to occupy the position in that State. Later he became supervisor of agricultural education and high-school inspector for the state of Missouri. It was from the latter position that he was called to service with the Federal Board for Vocational Education.

Before appointment to his present post in 1941, Dr. Spanton was federal agent for agricultural education in the Pacific region for 16 years.

* * *

A NATIVE OHIOAN, Dr. Spanton spent his early life on a farm near Harrison. He received his high-school education in the Harrison high school. He holds the degrees of bachelor of arts and bachelor of science in agriculture from Ohio State, master of arts degree from Brown university, and degree of doctor of philosophy from American university.

More than 250 Ohio farmers and soil conservation district governing body members are expected to attend the Columbus luncheon.

The three outstanding farmers and the five members of the governing body of the outstanding district of the state, will be awarded all-expense, one-week vacation tours to Goodyear Farms, Litchfield Park, Arizona, at the luncheon. The actual trip to Arizona will be in December.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad put out the first railroad timetable in 1830.

GOP Reports All Is Harmony

WASHINGTON, June 2 — The GOP revolt against Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson appears ended today in a new era of harmony between the national committee and Republican leaders on Capitol Hill.

Congressional sources say Gabrielson will remain in charge of Republican headquarters for the coming campaign. A series of changes in campaign tactics, inaugurated by Gabrielson in the last month, brought about an armistice to cover next November's elections.

REA Opening Up Annual Drive

WASHINGTON, June 2 — The Rural Electrification Administration has begun its annual drive to push through country power loans. It approved 22 loans totalling $7,482,000 last week.

An REA spokesman says the sudden scramble to clear the loans is usual near the end of the business year which ends June 30.

He says that cooperatives waiting beyond the usual limit for word on loan applications should hold on a little bit longer.

Churchmen Rap Legal Numbers

CLEVELAND, June 2 — Religious leaders from Cleveland's east side are spearheading an attack today against an ordinance to legalize the possession of numbers slips.

A campaign to oppose the proposed ordinance was organized last night in Central Avenue Baptist church.

Pastor Wade McKinney called on those attending the meeting to be present, and to urge others to attend when city council considers the ordinance Monday night.

Jersey Limits Truck Loads

TRENTON, N. J., June 2 — Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll has signed a bill to limit the weight of trucks traveling through New Jersey and increasing registration fees on such vehicles by approximately $2 million.

The new statute was opposed by trucking companies during its course through the legislature. It fixes weight limits of single axle trucks at 22,400 pounds. Tandem trucks would be allowed to carry a maximum of 32,000 pounds under the provisions of the new law, which is effective Jan. 1 next.

New GE Lamp Kills Odors

CLEVELAND, June 2—People may soon be able to turn on a "clean smell" as easily as they now turn on the light.

In fact, according to officials of General Electric Co., they will be able to do both at the same time by means of a small deodorizing lamp bulb.

The lamp, introduced by the company's Cleveland lamp department, gives off concentrations of ozone, a form of oxygen, which make the presence of odors less perceptible.

Ozone lamps are being built into dryers, refrigerators and beverage vending machines.

WINTER DOES DAMAGE

County Roads Scheduled For Annual Repair Work

Work of repairing Winter ravages on Pickaway County roads is expected to get into full swing next week.

County Engineer Henry T. McCrady said the work will include about 30 miles of road to be blacktopped under contract maintenance. Sections resurfaced will be scattered throughout the county's 200 miles of roads.

"The blacktopping will be done on the worst roads, the ones that are too far gone to patch," McCrady explained. "After two or three years of use, blacktop gets dead and needs a shot. And that's what this is."

The engineer added that work on one of the two projects proposed under a state-federal aid program may get under way this Summer. He said approval to resurface 3.9 miles of the Tarlton-Adelphi road from Tarlton to Stringtown probably will be obtained soon.

Under the state-federal aid program, $15,313 has been set up by the state for use in Pickaway County.

* * *

IN ORDER to use the money, however, the county is required to select a federally approved project, thus insuring matching of the fund by the federal government.

McCrady explained that this means the work must be done on federal secondary roads within the county.

A list of federal secondary roads on which work under the program may be undertaken was drawn up in October, 1945, by the county commissioners, county, state highway department and federal engineers.

Providing the county stays within the funds allocated under the program, the county pays nothing for the construction work on the roads. The matching is on a 50-50 basis.

Summer maintenance work on county roads will include both spray and pothole patching, McCrady said. He defined spray patching as "a method of repairing cracks and checks in the road surface."

"Potholes," he went one, "are fixed by filling them full of patching compound."

He said no regular work pattern will be followed this Summer except that potholes will be attended to first.

In addition to routine patching jobs McCrady said the department will mow weeds along the roadsides, repair guardrails and remove excess berm from some of the roads.

"If we let it go too long," the engineer said, "it builds up and holds water."

* * *

HE SAID THAT tree thinning along the road right-of-ways has been brought down to a minimum.

"We work on dead elms along the roads now only when it rains and we have nothing else to do. That problem is pretty well cleared up."

Bridge troubles, he said, normally start in late July and August. Most of the county's bridges are steel structures with wooden floors.

Attorney Fails To Win Income Tax Legal Tiff

CLEVELAND, June 2—Cleveland Attorney Fred Acker faces a possible year in jail and a fine up to $10,000 today for his refusal to become what he describes as "a tax slave."

Acker's battle with the federal government was halted temporarily last night when a Cleveland jury found him guilty of a crime for failure to file a 1946 income tax return.

Undismayed by his defeat, the bespectacled, 54-year-old attorney said:

"I will, of course, appeal. I was not born a tax slave and I will not die one."

For two days, Acker had tried to convince the jury that the present income tax law, scaling upward on bigger incomes, is unconstitutional, insisting that "excesses" have made it "confiscatory."

Acker, who defended himself, was reported to have won three jurors to his views, but a guilty verdict was returned within five hours after the jury got the case.

He was then taken to county jail, where he is to remain until sentenced next week.

Firemen Play With Balloon; It's Busted

Boyle's law to the contrary, Circleville firemen have discovered that what goes up's gotta come down.

And that's what happened to a tame balloon the fire laddies had roped to a fire hydrant Thursday.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise explained he purchased the gadget from an Army surplus store. Paid two bucks for it, and got it complete with a hydrogen generator.

"Our reason for flying it? We just wanted to look at it," explained the chief.

And they were looking at it Thursday noon when, with a 100 feet cord payed out, the balloon dipped into a tree.

"Got to vulcanize it now," said the chief.

Traffic Court Fines Paid By 3 Men Here

Earnest Seymour, 24, of Chillicothe, was fined $50 and costs Wednesday in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for operating an auto while using fictitious license plates.

Seymour was arrested on South Court street by Officers Mack Wise and Carl Thompson.

Meanwhile, Ray Lucas, 34, of Columbus was fined $10 and costs in the city court for permitting Daniel Nesbitt, 27, of Columbus, (also fined $10 and costs) to drive his auto without an operator's permit.

The Columbus men were arrested on South Court street by Officer Harold Green.

$10,000 Granted In Accident

CLEVELAND, June 2—A $10,000 verdict has been won by a Cleveland used car dealer who was struck by a CTS bus.

John Theisz, 60, was struck by an eastbound bus in 1946. Since then his suit has come to trial eight times.

A jury deliberated two hours late yesterday before awarding Theisz $10,000. The injured man said he was standing on the sidewalk looking at a used car when he was struck by the bus.

Be-Boppers Bring Headaches For Brooklyn Cops

NEW YORK, June 2—The be-boppers, who wear peg trousers in red, green or other vivid colors with contrasting knee-length coats, were cited by Brooklyn police today as a new menace in street warfare which has claimed the lives of two youths in recent weeks.

The existence of the new gang, whose members travel by night in automobiles and raid dances to steal girls, was disclosed in an investigation ordered by District Attorney Miles F. McDonald.

Charles Bradley, head of the Youth Counsel Bureau in McDonald's office, said the be-boppers also affect odd haircuts—the back of the head shaved but leaving the hair long on top.

Frequently when members of other gangs catch a be-bopper they cut off his forelock.

Bloody teen age gang warfare is causing serious concern to Metropolitan New York officials. Mayor William O'Dwyer has called on police to utilize every facility to break up the 17 to 20 gangs—each composed of 150 to 200 youths—known to be active.

Sheriff Says No Fireworks To Be Sold

Another warning against the sale of fireworks in Pickaway County this year has been issued by Sheriff Charles Radclif.

The sheriff, citing that many youngsters in and near Circleville already have the contraband materials, said:

"We are going to cooperate fully with other authorities on this. Anyone who sells fireworks here will be doing so at his own risk."

The sheriff said he plans o make sure that none of the explosive or combustible materials classified as "fireworks" is sold in any of the stores in the county.

Radcliff added that the only materials which may be sold legally here are toy caps, cap canes and other devices which use the paper caps.

"Snakes, fountains, skyrockets, pinwheels and everything else along that line falls under the fireworks category," he pointed out, "and anyone who sells them will be doing so illegally."

Trucker Lucky As Gas Blows

YPSILANTI, Mich., June 2—Franklin Fausey, 25, of Green Springs, figured today he is one of the luckiest men alive—just because he is alive.

The gasoline truck-trailer he was driving yesterday exploded on Ypsilanti's main street yesterday causing several thousands of dollars worth of damage.

Fausey leaped from the truck and escaped without singing a hair.

The blast shattered shop windows in a nearby store and the resulting fire burned four autos on a used car lot.

Traffic Court Fines Paid By 3 Men Here

Earnest Seymour, 24, of Chillicothe, was fined $50 and costs Wednesday in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for operating an auto while using fictitious license plates.

Seymour was arrested on South Court street by Officers Mack Wise and Carl Thompson.

Meanwhile, Ray Lucas, 34, of Columbus was fined $10 and costs in the city court for permitting Daniel Nesbitt, 27, of Columbus, (also fined $10 and costs) to drive his auto without an operator's permit.

The Columbus men were arrested on South Court street by Officer Harold Green.

$10,000 Granted In Accident

CLEVELAND, June 2—A $10,000 verdict has been won by a Cleveland used car dealer who was struck by a CTS bus.

John Theisz, 60, was struck by an eastbound bus in 1946. Since then his suit has come to trial eight times.

A jury deliberated two hours late yesterday before awarding Theisz $10,000. The injured man said he was standing on the sidewalk looking at a used car when he was struck by the bus.

Be-Boppers Bring Headaches For Brooklyn Cops

NEW YORK, June 2—The be-boppers, who wear peg trousers in red, green or other vivid colors with contrasting knee-length coats, were cited by Brooklyn police today as a new menace in street warfare which has claimed the lives of two youths in recent weeks.

The existence of the new gang, whose members travel by night in automobiles and raid dances to steal girls, was disclosed in an investigation ordered by District Attorney Miles F. McDonald.

Charles Bradley, head of the Youth Counsel Bureau in McDonald's office, said the be-boppers also affect odd haircuts—the back of the head shaved but leaving the hair long on top.

Frequently when members of other gangs catch a be-bopper they cut off his forelock.

Bloody teen age gang warfare is causing serious concern to Metropolitan New York officials. Mayor William O'Dwyer has called on police to utilize every facility to break up the 17 to 20 gangs—each composed of 150 to 200 youths—known to be active.

Sheriff Says No Fireworks To Be Sold

Another warning against the sale of fireworks in Pickaway County this year has been issued by Sheriff Charles Radclif.

The sheriff, citing that many youngsters in and near Circleville already have the contraband materials, said:

"We are going to cooperate fully with other authorities on this. Anyone who sells fireworks here will be doing so at his own risk."

The sheriff said he plans o make sure that none of the explosive or combustible materials classified as "fireworks" is sold in any of the stores in the county.

Radcliff added that the only materials which may be sold legally here are toy caps, cap canes and other devices which use the paper caps.

"Snakes, fountains, skyrockets, pinwheels and everything else along that line falls under the fireworks category," he pointed out, "and anyone who sells them will be doing so illegally."

Trucker Lucky As Gas Blows

YPSILANTI, Mich., June 2—Franklin Fausey, 25, of Green Springs, figured today he is one of the luckiest men alive—just because he is alive.

The gasoline truck-trailer he was driving yesterday exploded on Ypsilanti's main street yesterday causing several thousands of dollars worth of damage.

Fausey leaped from the truck and escaped without singing a hair.

The blast shattered shop windows in a nearby store and the resulting fire burned four autos on a used car lot.

Harvest ALL Your Forage
EASIER-FASTER-CHEAPER-

A Papec Forage Harvester takes all the heavy work out of putting up hay — either green, wilted or cured — and silage row crops. Savings in time, labor and twine soon offset the added investment in equipment.

With a Papec Forage Harvester, only clean, twine-free feed goes into the silo or barn. Row crops never touch the ground. Field harvesting saves a much larger proportion of the nutrient-rich leaves than do ordinary methods of handling hay. Your milk and beef production gets the benefit.

Come in and let us tell you more about these labor-saving Papec Harvesters.

SOLACE FOR LOSERS

THE HOUSE Ways and Means Committee, pursuing its singular course of whittling taxes while the government goes deeper into the red, has agreed on a bit of comfort for people who lose money in business. It would change the income tax provision for operating losses, allowing an additional two years of total time for recovery of the losses from earnings and allowing the losses to be carried forward for five years. This is a minor alteration in the tax structure, and seems fair enough; a business man or corporation losing money in a bad year ought to be entitled to recover the loss in the next few years without paying income tax on the recovery.

It is estimated that this proposed change would mean a savings of about $100,000,000 for business taxpayers over the next five years. That is not a very large piece of the federal revenue. Neither is it a very large piece of business income, although it is possible that the saving might be very important to a business struggling to come back after suffering heavy losses. It should be worth the sacrifice of a little federal revenue occasionally to help a business to survive a period of bad fortune.

Every reduction in federal taxes, welcome as it may be at the moment to the taxpayer, increases the urgent need for reducing the total cost of government. It is a happy day when Congress is generous with tax reductions, but it will be a painful day when we have to repay the loans being floated to keep the government going at its full glory despite the cuts in income.

PACIFIC STATE

THE SENATE'S slowness about granting statehood to Hawaii and Alaska is due in part to reluctance to admit territories with comparatively small population. An ingenious solution is suggested by William H. Griffiths, writing in the New York Times. He would combine the two into one state, whose name might be Pacific, and to which other Pacific territories, such as Guam, could be added if desired. He suggests the statehood act should contain provision for splitting into separate commonwealths later when there is a demand. This provision was included in the act admitting Texas to the Union, though it has never been utilized.

Hawaii and Alaska seem far apart, and without much in common. That they would be happy with such an arrangement is doubtful. The difficulties and cost of administering a state with components separated by thousands of miles of ocean would be considerable. Besides, it would establish a precedent for combining some of the present states of small size or small population. Is that a precedent to be desired, or do small states have their usefulness?

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The National Council Against Conscription is conducting a campaign to influence Congress to oppose conscription in peacetime. They quote Congressman Lane of Massachusetts to the effect that the conscription law points a dagger at every mother's heart.

This is only partly true, for there are many daggers pointed at mothers' hearts these days, and if conscription is one, the ever-present danger of war is even a more horrible and vicious one.

The National Council Against Conscription asks:

"Why then does the Army want to continue to register and classify all boys of draft age? The simple answer is that the Army wants to make every family aware of the military claim on its boys. They are potentially in the Army in peacetime as well as in wartime."

This is so true. Yet let us put it another way. Since 1945, an astonishing number of countries have been conquered, so that in 1950, the conquering power holds a population of 800 million. As of today's date, three more countries are in danger of immediate conquest—Germany, Indo-China and the Philippines.

What is the responsibility of our government in the face of this ever-present and immediate danger? If we quarrel with the State Department, it is because of a feeling that they gambled on peace and lost. There is no peace anywhere in the world today.

Therefore, our government has no alternative but to prepare for the defense of its people, their way of life, and their territory. We can be as craven as the present government of Czechoslovakia which caved in. Or shall we appease the conquerer until he has us without the effort of conquest, or shall we be ready to meet him on any field at any time?

A government has to decide on that question immediately. There can be no waiting until we are attacked, for obviously in the mechanics of the new warfare there is no waiting time on either side.

The dilemma is one of the most unpleasant in history. The alternatives are so few. I know that there are intelligent, educated people who feel that the so-called warmongers, as they call those who are pushing preparedness, are wrong in their calculations. Maybe that is correct. The danger of error on the part of the pacifists is greater than error on the part of warmongers. If we prepare but have no war, the loss is not as great as it can be if we are unprepared and suffer defeat.

If my fears of Russia, for instance should prove unfounded, it would be a blessing to all mankind. Should my conclusion that Russia seeks to conquer this country prove to be correct—and we are not ready—it could prove a major if not final catastrophe.

Dean Acheson, our secretary of state, is, on the whole, a peaceful man given to appeasement. Yet he has been driven by the course of events into the position of a warmonger. President Truman hates war. He has certainly done nothing to stir his country to war with any people. Yet he is obviously wearying of the progress that our enemy is making the world over.

Now we know. The United States Weather Bureau has said that this year "may turn out to be warmer or colder than average, or just normal." After all, why be too definite?

Rheumatic Fever in Children

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

RHEUMATIC fever has been called the nation's No. 1 killer of children. This disorder, which causes such symptoms as anemia, fatigue, swelling of the joints and, especially, damage to the heart, might also be characterized as a hit-and-run enemy; that is, it does not usually do its work all at one time, but, having struck once, returns again and again, creating new havoc with each attack.

While the exact cause of rheumatic fever has not been discovered, it has been found that attacks often follow an upper respiratory infection, that is, a cold and sore throat, particularly those produced by a certain type of streptococcus germ. Hence, if methods can be found to prevent infections with these streptococci germs, it is possible that the attacks of rheumatic fever may be warded off.

Rheumatic Fever

A group of 53 children, who had rheumatic fever, were given penicillin by mouth over a seven-month period. The penicillin was given a half hour before breakfast and a half hour before supper; 64 children were given a similar tablet which was completely inactive, and the results in the two groups were compared.

In those receiving the penicillin over a seven-month period, none developed any respiratory infections. In only one case was it possible to find streptococcus germs in the throat.

In the 64 children who did not receive the penicillin, four had upper respiratory infections, and the streptococci germs were found in throats of 11; four of these children who had the streptococci germs in their throats were cleared up within three to four days with the penicillin treatment.

Given By Mouth

It is possible that the penicillin given by mouth may be useful in controlling upper respiratory infections in homes, schools, and other institutions. It would seem that it may be particularly valuable in those cases in which the streptococci germs are found in the throat, and the child is suffering from rheumatic fever. There seems to be no doubt that the giving of the penicillin by mouth will eliminate the streptococci germs from the lining membranes of the mouth and throat.

Of course, such treatment should be carried out only under the direction of a physician, who will decide in which cases it may be of value.

It is quite possible that this method may be useful in cutting down the number of attacks of rheumatic fever.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

G. M.: Is nervous stomach caused by excessive drinking, eating too fast or eating fried or fatty foods?

Answer: All these things may lead to a stomach disorder. Usually the source of the difficulty is gall-bladder disease, ulcer of the stomach or intestines, constipation or chronic appendicitis. To determine the exact cause, a thorough study of intestinal tract must be made. X-rays may be necessary.

The Outsiders

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

ELIZA knew Hespeth listened while she practiced. She would hear the scrape of a chair put against the kitchen door to hold it open and sometimes Hespeth would come into the back parlor and sit on the edge of a chair there. So, today, when her ear caught the creak of a floorboard, she thought it was Hespeth and did not so much as glance over her shoulder.

She was working on a Liszt rhapsody, going over and over the more difficult parts, intent on the technique. But after a little she had to stop to rest her fingers and immediately someone behind her said, "Pretty fine!"

She knew the voice . . . She swung around on the stool, her heart pounding against her ribs.

"I thought—it was Hespeth!"

Chris Cameron came up to the piano. "Hespeth told me to walk in. It's a habit we got into when your grandfather was living. He'd be in his study and I'd come and Hespeth would tell me to go along in." He did not say it apologetically. He stood by the piano, leaning against it, smiling across it at her.

There was something more personal and intimate in his smile today, and in his look on her, and Eliza lowered her eyes from it.

"It seems to be a habit practiced quite generally around here. Must I get used to it?"

Chris' answer was a hearty laugh. "Think you can change Hespeth's ways?"

Eliza laughed, too, at the absurdity of thinking of changing Hespeth's ways. And laughing eased the tight pressure of her breath against her ribs.

"I promise to knock next time I come, if you prefer it. Wasn't that Liszt's Sixth you were playing?"

Eliza asked, with an odd sharpness in her voice, "Do you play?"

He reassured her quickly. "Not a note. But I'm strong on listening. I'd be delighted if you'd play that one over again."

She put her fingers on the keys as if she were going to oblige him, then drew them away. Peter might come . . . Peter sometimes had listened to her play, leaning over the piano, as Chris was, now.

She got up from the stool. "I'm too terribly out of practice." Her voice shook a little. "I haven't played much these last years."

"The war?"

"Yes, the war. Let's go into the study. It's pleasanter there." Peter could not come there! She went ahead of him into the study.

In the study Chris asked, "Shall I put a match to this wood?"

She nodded her head. "A fire would be nice."

They stood for a moment watching the lick of flame grow and spread. Eliza broke the little silence. She gave a quick glance up at the portrait hanging over the fireplace. "I wish I'd known my grandfather! It wouldn't be so hard then—I'd know what to do!"

"It is a great pity you didn't know him," said Chris after a moment. He looked up at the portrait, a deep affection and respect in his regard of it. "You know the story of the start of the mill here?"

The question did not seem relevant to Eliza. "Why—no more than that it was years and years ago."

"You see, something of its beginning has gone on through all the years since. It's what makes this communit" unique in a way. I don't think there are many like it."

"What?" asked Eliza.

Chris paused to choose his words. "A kinship among the people, stronger than blood ties. A very fine kind of neighborliness. You know about your great-grandfather—no, he'd be your great-great, wouldn't he?—sending word to his friends up north to join him here? They had shared some pretty tough going together and he wanted to go on sharing with them what this valley had to offer. Quite a few came and more after them. Half of the valley, now, I'd say, is peopled by the sons of the sons of those first settlers, living on the land this first Forrestal deeded to them. There are some old notes and a few old letters pasted in that journal of your grandfather's." Chris nodded toward the bookshelves.

"Neighborliness," repeated Eliza with some spirit. "Isn't it more a clannishness? They shut out everyone who come in from the outside."

She saw Chris smile and thought he was remembering the indignation with which she had denied being an outsider.

"I figure that's a throw-back to the caution those first settlers had to follow. They had to be very certain who and what a man was before they let him into their midst. A defensive instinct then, and I suppose it is now. But it's only a matter of time . . ."

Eliza looked around at him. "And proving something, I remember you said. But wouldn't you think my grandfather's will was enough to prove my right to be here?"

"Your right to be here—but not one of them. No one's denying my right to live on my half-acre up there in the Notch, as long as I paid for it, but it ends there until I've won a place among them. It took six months for me to get on the inside with your grandfather. It wasn't until he knew what I was and why I was here."

"Why are you here?" asked Eliza.

Chris laughed. "The New Interval Yankee coming out in you! Your grandfather put it just about as bluntly. A fair enough question and I'll answer it. I'd come to a realization that what I was and everything I was doing was all wrong, so I cut out from it all. I liked this locality and decided to stay here a while—at least until I got straightened around with myself. It's a good place for that—you learn real values here."

Eliza exclaimed, "That's why I came! It wasn't my grandfather's money—I didn't think of that! I didn't think of the mill until I got here. It was—everything I was doing was wrong and it was a chance to leave it all behind me."

"It must have taken courage to make your decision."

She shook her head. "It was desperation. I simply couldn't face another day of that other! Anything would be better! I didn't think until after I got here of the responsibility it meant. I don't think it was very practical of my grandfather to turn it over to me!"

"You're a Forrestal," said Chris, smiling a little.

Eliza gave an impatient laugh. "And because I'm a Forrestal I'm supposed to understand everything about running the mill!"

Chris did not speak for a moment, then he said, "He wasn't too certain of your going on with it. He talked about it sometimes. For one thing, he didn't know whether you'd come. And another, whether you could carry on. But I remember his saying, 'Let her try. There's no one else . . .'"

"Oh!" said Eliza, low. "Your telling me that makes it harder!"

Chris leaned a little toward her. "I don't think you'll fail! I'm willing to bet everything I own that you will not!"

Chris stood up, some confusion in his own face. "Well, thanks for letting me say it. Next time I come, I'll bring along that book I spoke of—Weygandt's White Hills. It'll help you know your New Hampshire."

"I'll read it."

Chris held out his hand and she put hers into it for an instant and their eyes met for as brief an instant.

When he had gone she dropped down on the ottoman, her arms clasping her knees, her eyes on the dying fire.

He'd said, "Next time I come."

She found herself wanting to know more about him, everything about him, what he did, what he though about things . . .

FOLKS OF FAME—GUESS THE NAME

1—This French diplomat and statesman was born at Paris on Feb. 12 or 13, 1754. As a child he injured his foot for life. He studied for the priesthood, was appointed bishop, but was frequently in disagreement with the church and was finally placed under ban by the Pope. In 1791 he began his diplomatic career. After the French monarchy was overthrown he went to England, but was banished from there after the execution of Louis XVI. He served under Napoleon Bonaparte but after the restoration of the monarchy he became foreign minister. The crown of his diplomacy was his part in the negotiations respecting the founding of the new kingdom of Belgium, and in the treaty which brought together France, Great Britain, Spain and Portugal as allies. He died May 17, 1838. What was his name?

2—This German composer was born Sept. 1, 1854. He studied music at Cologne and Munich, then went to Italy where he met Richard Wagner, and was invited to assist at the production of Parsifal at Bayreuth. He became music critic and professor of composition at Frankfurt. His orchestral work, Humoreske, in 1880 brought him recognition. In 1893 he produced his charming children's opera, Hansel and Gretel, for which he is best known. He died at Neue Strelitz on Sept. 27, 1921. Who was he?

Jet Air Transport Program Should Be Launched Shortly

Far Behind Britain, Canada, Uncle Sam May Avoid Errors

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Congress may be expected shortly to approve expenditure of $12.5 million to launch the long-awaited program of developing jet air transports in the United States.

The Senate commerce committee is about to urge passage of a bill authorizing that amount of money for experimentation in jet operation.

Britain and Canada, way ahead of the United States, nevertheless made mistakes which the United States research program hopes to eliminate as it provides data to manufacturers who cannot afford to develop jet transports independently.

The Capitol

The Defense department, Commerce department and other top federal agencies have approved the legislation. The development program would use existing military, British and Canadian jet liners to run a "research" jet airline, with the data gathered going to American plane builders.

● NEW REACTOR—Atomic Energy Commission research workers are encouraging the University of North Carolina with its plans to construct and operate an atomic reactor.

The reactor, which would be the first in the south, would be capable of producing everything except fissionable materials.

This is in accordance with the McMahon Atomic Energy act.

The AEC is believed ready to grant a license to the school for construction of the reactor once plans have been submitted and are approved in Washington.

Further, the research equipment would be financed locally—and would not be dependent upon federal grants either for construction or operation.

AEC spokesmen point out that this type of research is much needed and the AEC will give all possible co-operation in instances where well thought-out plans are submitted.

But he climbed out of bed against doctor's orders to vote against a proposal by Senator Robert A. Taft (R), Ohio, to cut $500 million off the Marshall Plan fund. And it was his vote that defeated the proposal. At the time, Smith was recovering from an appendectomy.

Of course, you must remember that the White House is being torn down. It is being rebuilt completely except for the exterior walls. The commission supervising renovation is disposing of the material which is being removed.

And here is your obliging congressman, right on hand, to see that you get a stone, brick, piece of pine, floor board, old-fashioned nail, wrought iron band, hand-hewn lath, or the like. But no, you can't have a fireplace.

SOLACE FOR LOSERS

THE HOUSE Ways and Means Committee, pursuing its singular course of whittling taxes while the government goes deeper into the red, has agreed on a bit of comfort for people who lose money in business. It would change the income tax provision for operating losses, allowing an additional two years of total time for recovery of the losses from earnings and allowing the losses to be carried forward for five years. This is a minor alteration in the tax structure, and seems fair enough; a business man or corporation losing money in a bad year ought to be entitled to recover the loss in the next few years without paying income tax on the recovery.

It is estimated that this proposed change would mean a savings of about $100,000,000 for business taxpayers over the next five years. That is not a very large piece of the federal revenue. Neither is it a very large piece of business income, although it is possible that the saving might be very important to a business struggling to come back after suffering heavy losses. It should be worth the sacrifice of a little federal revenue occasionally to help a business to survive a period of bad fortune.

Every reduction in federal taxes, welcome as it may be at the moment to the taxpayer, increases the urgent need for reducing the total cost of government. It is a happy day when Congress is generous with tax reductions, but it will be a painful day when we have to repay the loans being floated to keep the government going at its full glory despite the cuts in income.

PACIFIC STATE

THE SENATE'S slowness about granting statehood to Hawaii and Alaska is due in part to reluctance to admit territories with comparatively small population. An ingenious solution is suggested by William H. Griffiths, writing in the New York Times. He would combine the two into one state, whose name might be Pacific, and to which other Pacific territories, such as Guam, could be added if desired. He suggests the statehood act should contain provision for splitting into separate commonwealths later when there is a demand. This provision was included in the act admitting Texas to the Union, though it has never been utilized.

Hawaii and Alaska seem far apart, and without much in common. That they would be happy with such an arrangement is doubtful. The difficulties and cost of administering a state with components separated by thousands of miles of ocean would be considerable. Besides, it would establish a precedent for combining some of the present states of small size or small population. Is that a precedent to be desired, or do small states have their usefulness?

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The National Council Against Conscription is conducting a campaign to influence Congress to oppose conscription in peacetime. They quote Congressman Lane of Massachusetts to the effect that the conscription law points a dagger at every mother's heart.

This is only partly true, for there are many daggers pointed at mothers' hearts these days, and if conscription is one, the ever-present danger of war is even a more horrible and vicious one.

The National Council Against Conscription asks:

"Why then does the Army want to continue to register and classify all boys of draft age? The simple answer is that the Army wants to make every family aware of the military claim on its boys. They are potentially in the Army in peacetime as well as in wartime."

This is so true. Yet let us put it another way. Since 1945, an astonishing number of countries have been conquered, so that in 1950, the conquering power holds a population of 800 million. As of today's date, three more countries are in danger of immediate conquest—Germany, Indo-China and the Philippines.

What is the responsibility of our government in the face of this ever-present and immediate danger? If we quarrel with the State Department, it is because of a feeling that they gambled on peace and lost. There is no peace anywhere in the world today.

Therefore, our government has no alternative but to prepare for the defense of its people, their way of life, and their territory. We can be as craven as the present government of Czechoslovakia which caved in. Or shall we appease the conquerer until he has us without the effort of conquest, or shall we be ready to meet him on any field at any time?

A government has to decide on that question immediately. There can be no waiting until we are attacked, for obviously in the mechanics of the new warfare there is no waiting time on either side.

The dilemma is one of the most unpleasant in history. The alternatives are so few. I know that there are intelligent, educated people who feel that the so-called warmongers, as they call those who are pushing preparedness, are wrong in their calculations. Maybe that is correct. The danger of error on the part of the pacifists is greater than error on the part of warmongers. If we prepare but have no war, the loss is not as great as it can be if we are unprepared and suffer defeat.

If my fears of Russia, for instance should prove unfounded, it would be a blessing to all mankind. Should my conclusion that Russia seeks to conquer this country prove to be correct—and we are not ready—it could prove a major if not final catastrophe.

Dean Acheson, our secretary of state, is, on the whole, a peaceful man given to appeasement. Yet he has been driven by the course of events into the position of a warmonger. President Truman hates war. He has certainly done nothing to stir his country to war with any people. Yet he is obviously wearying of the progress that our enemy is making the world over.

Rheumatic Fever in Children

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

RHEUMATIC fever has been called the nation's No. 1 killer of children. This disorder, which causes such symptoms as anemia, fatigue, swelling of the joints and, especially, damage to the heart, might also be characterized as a hit-and-run enemy; that is, it does not usually do its work all at one time, but, having struck once, returns again and again, creating new havoc with each attack.

While the exact cause of rheumatic fever has not been discovered, it has been found that attacks often follow an upper respiratory infection, that is, a cold and sore throat, particularly those produced by a certain type of streptococcus germ. Hence, if methods can be found to prevent infections with these streptococci germs, it is possible that the attacks of rheumatic fever may be warded off.

Rheumatic Fever

A group of 53 children, who had rheumatic fever, were given penicillin by mouth over a seven-month period. The penicillin was given a half hour before breakfast and a half hour before supper; 64 children were given a similar tablet which was completely inactive, and the results in the two groups were compared.

In those receiving the penicillin over a seven-month period, none developed any respiratory infections. In only one case was it possible to find streptococcus germs in the throat.

In the 64 children who did not receive the penicillin, four had upper respiratory infections, and the streptococci germs were found in throats of 11; four of these children who had the streptococci germs in their throats were cleared up within three to four days with the penicillin treatment.

Given By Mouth

It is possible that the penicillin given by mouth may be useful in controlling upper respiratory infections in homes, schools, and other institutions. It would seem that it may be particularly valuable in those cases in which the streptococci germs are found in the throat, and the child is suffering from rheumatic fever. There seems to be no doubt that the giving of the penicillin by mouth will eliminate the streptococci germs from the lining membranes of the mouth and throat.

Of course, such treatment should be carried out only under the direction of a physician, who will decide in which cases it may be of value.

It is quite possible that this method may be useful in cutting down the number of attacks of rheumatic fever.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

G. M.: Is nervous stomach caused by excessive drinking, eating too fast or eating fried or fatty foods?

Answer: All these things may lead to a stomach disorder. Usually the source of the difficulty is gall-bladder disease, ulcer of the stomach or intestines, constipation or chronic appendicitis. To determine the exact cause, a thorough study of intestinal tract must be made. X-rays may be necessary.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

ELIZA knew Hespeth listened while she practiced. She would hear the scrape of a chair put against the kitchen door to hold it open and sometimes Hespeth would come into the back parlor and sit on the edge of a chair there. So, today, when her ear caught the creak of a floorboard, she thought it was Hespeth and did not so much as glance over her shoulder.

She was working on a Liszt rhapsody, going over and over the more difficult parts, intent on the technique. But after a little she had to stop to rest her fingers and immediately someone behind her said, "Pretty fine!"

She knew the voice . . . She swung around on the stool, her heart pounding against her ribs.

"I thought—it was Hespeth!"

Chris Cameron came up to the piano. "Hespeth told me to walk in. It's a habit we got into when your grandfather was living. He'd be in his study and I'd come and Hespeth would tell me to go along in." He did not say it apologetically. He stood by the piano, leaning against it, smiling across it at her.

There was something more personal and intimate in his smile today, and in his look on her, and Eliza lowered her eyes from it.

"It seems to be a habit practiced quite generally around here. Must I get used to it?"

Chris' answer was a hearty laugh. "Think you can change Hespeth's ways?"

Eliza laughed, too, at the absurdity of thinking of changing Hespeth's ways. And laughing eased the tight pressure of her breath against her ribs.

"I promise to knock next time I come, if you prefer it. Wasn't that Liszt's Sixth you were playing?"

Eliza asked, with an odd sharpness in her voice, "Do you play?"

He reassured her quickly. "Not a note. But I'm strong on listening. I'd be delighted if you'd play that one over again."

She put her fingers on the keys as if she were going to oblige him, then drew them away. Peter might come . . . Peter sometimes had listened to her play, leaning over the piano, as Chris was, now.

She got up from the stool. "I'm too terribly out of practice." Her voice shook a little. "I haven't played much these last years."

"The war?"

"Yes, the war. Let's go into the study. It's pleasanter there." Peter could not come there! She went ahead of him into the study.

In the study Chris asked, "Shall I put a match to this wood?"

She nodded her head. "A fire would be nice."

They stood for a moment watching the lick of flame grow and spread. Eliza broke the little silence. She gave a quick glance up at the portrait hanging over the fireplace. "I wish I'd known my grandfather! It wouldn't be so hard then—I'd know what to do!"

"It is a great pity you didn't know him," said Chris after a moment. He looked up at the portrait, a deep affection and respect in his regard of it. "You know the story of the start of the mill here?"

The question did not seem relevant to Eliza. "Why—no more than that it was years and years ago."

"You see, something of its beginning has gone on through all the years since. It's what makes this community unique in a way. I don't think there are many like it."

"What?" asked Eliza.

Chris paused to choose his words. "A kinship among the people, stronger than blood ties. A very fine kind of neighborliness. You know about your great-grandfather—no, he'd be your great-great, wouldn't he?—sending word to his friends up north to join him here? They had shared some pretty tough going together and he wanted to go on sharing with them what this valley had to offer. Quite a few came and more after them. Half of the valley, now, I'd say, is peopled by the sons of the sons of those first settlers, living on the land this first Forrestal deeded to them. There are some old notes and a few old letters pasted in that journal of your grandfather's." Chris nodded toward the bookshelves.

"Neighborliness," repeated Eliza with some spirit. "Isn't it more a clannishness? They shut out everyone who come in from the outside."

She saw Chris smile and thought he was remembering the indignation with which she had denied being an outsider.

"I figure that's a throw-back to the caution those first settlers had to follow. They had to be very certain who and what a man was before they let him into their midst. A defensive instinct then, and I suppose it is now. But it's only a matter of time . . ."

Eliza looked around at him. "And proving something, I remember you said. But wouldn't you think my grandfather's will was enough to prove my right to be here?"

"Your right to be here—but not one of them. No one's denying my right to live on my half-acre up there in the Notch, as long as I paid for it, but it ends there until I've won a place among them. It took six months for me to get on the inside with your grandfather. It wasn't until he knew what I was and why I was here."

"Why are you here?" asked Eliza.

Chris laughed. "The New Interval Yankee coming out in you! Your grandfather put it just about as bluntly. A fair enough question and I'll answer it. I'd come to a realization that what I was and everything I was doing was all wrong, so I cut out from it all. I liked this locality and decided to stay here a while—at least until I got straightened around with myself. It's a good place for that—you learn real values here."

Eliza exclaimed, "That's why I came! It wasn't my grandfather's money—I didn't think of that! I didn't think of the mill until I got here. It was—everything I was doing was wrong and it was a chance to leave it all behind me."

"It must have taken courage to make your decision."

She shook her head. "It was desperation. I simply couldn't face another day of that other! Anything would be better! I didn't think until after I got here of the responsibility it meant. I don't think it was very practical of my grandfather to turn it over to me!"

"You're a Forrestal," said Chris, smiling a little.

Eliza gave an impatient laugh. "And because I'm a Forrestal I'm supposed to understand everything about running the mill!"

Chris did not speak for a moment, then he said, "He wasn't too certain of your going on with it. He talked about it sometimes. For one thing, he didn't know whether you'd come. And another, whether you could carry on. But I remember his saying, 'Let her try. There's no one else . . .'"

"Oh!" said Eliza, low. "Your telling me that makes it harder!"

Chris leaned a little toward her. "I don't think you'll fail! I'm willing to bet everything I own that you will not!"

Chris stood up, some confusion in his own face. "Well, thanks for letting me say it. Next time I come, I'll bring along that book I spoke of—Weygandt's White Hills. It'll help you know your New Hampshire."

"I'll read it."

Chris held out his hand and she put hers into it for an instant and their eyes met for as brief an instant.

When he had gone she dropped down on the ottoman, her arms clasping her knees, her eyes on the dying fire.

He'd said, "Next time I come."

She found herself wanting to know more about him, everything about him, what he did, what he though about things . . .

Installation Of Officers Marks Final Meeting Of Season For Women's Unit

Letha Beavers New WSCS Head

Final meeting of the season of Women's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist church was held in the church parlors Thursday afternoon with an installation service the feature of the afternoon.

The Rev. Elisha Kneisley conducted the service when 14 new officers were installed. The slate of officers was complete when the names of Mrs. E. D. Wood as treasurer and Mrs. Boyd Stout as secretary of spiritual life were announced.

Rev. Mr. Kneisley installed Miss Letha Belle Beavers as president, Mrs. Walter Heine as vice-president, Mrs. Herbert Southward as recording secretary, Mrs. Carl Johnson as corresponding secretary and Mrs. Wood as treasurer.

Other officers who assumed their duties for the new year in the installation service included Mrs. Stout, Mrs. Clarence Thorne, Mrs. N. E. Reichelderfer, Mrs. Ernest Young, Mrs. Roliff Wolford, Mrs. Charles Fullen, Mrs. C. C. McClure, Mrs. Vaden Couch, Mrs. Berman Wertman and Mrs. George Schaub.

Mrs. Harold Pontius, retiring president, was in charge of the business meeting. She named Mrs. L. S. Lytle secretary of Home Sunshine committee with Mrs. C. C. McClure as treasurer of the committee.

Miss Beavers, retiring secretary of spiritual life, was in charge of a memorial service held in honor of the late Mrs. W. S. Gearhart.

All six WSCS circles reported that their financial quotas had been met. Mrs. Wolford and Mrs. Schaub, who are in charge of junior church, reported a financial donation from that organization.

Before presenting the gavel to the new president, Mrs. Pontius thanked members for their cooperation.

Miss Beavers announced that training session for WSCS officers and members will be held in Lancaster Camp Ground July 17 through 21.

The next meeting will take place in September.

4 Vacation Bible School Dates Set

Ashville, Kingston Groups Booked

A quartet of vacation Bible schools will open Monday in Pickaway County.

Trinity Lutheran church of Circleville will sponsor its 25th annual daily vacation Bible school beginning Monday and continuing for three weeks.

The Union Bible school is expected to begin also Monday and continue for about the same period, with classes in First Methodist church.

The Methodist, United Brethren and Lutheran churches of Ashville also will sponsor a Bible school beginning Monday.

Churches in the Kingston community also will open their second daily vacation Bible school at 9 a. m. Monday.

Nearly 170 children from the Ashville community are expected to attend this year's Bible school, which will begin at 8:30 a. m. daily.

The children are to participate in an informal recreation program beginning at 8:30 a. m. every morning, supervised by the Rev. C. A. Holmquist and Mrs. J. E. Courtright.

* * *

AT 9 A. M. THE youngsters will meet in the Methodist church for opening devotional services, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Holmquist, the Rev. A. B. Albertson and the Rev. J. D. Hopper.

The boys and girls will separate into age groups for Bible study until 10:45 a. m., followed by crafts classes. The school will be dismissed at 11:30 a. m. each day.

The Ashville school is scheduled to continue through June 16, closing with a community program.

Supervisers for the Ashville children, in addition to the three pastors, will be Mrs. Courtright, Mrs. Harvey Robey, Mrs. Felix Dore, Mrs. Emerson Dum, Mrs. Lowell Cooper, Belva Lou Eccard, Mrs. J. D. Hopper, Mrs. George Gardner, Mrs. Richard Peters, Mrs. A. B. Albertson, Mrs. Raymond Lindsey, Harold Bickle, Warren Bastian, Mrs. James Carley, Mrs. H. A. Dickinson, Mrs. Ethel Reed, Mrs. Robert Patrick, Max Marion, Mrs. Warren Bastian, Mrs. Siebert Duvall and Mrs. Maynard.

The Kingston Bible school, sponsored jointly by all of the Kingston and surrounding churches, will meet daily in Kingston Methodist church, supervised by the Rev. Charles B. Elkjer.

The school will be held between 9 a. m. and 11:30 a. m. every day through June 16. A special closing program for the public is planned for 7:30 p. m. June 18.

Last year, nearly 150 boys and girls attended the first Kingston Bible school, with an average daily attendance of over 100.

The school features games, stories, crafts classes and Bible study. The school is open to youngsters between the ages of 3 and 14-years-old.

The first cow in the United States was imported to New England in 1624.

Habakkuk Teaches Trust in God

JEHOVAH WILL OVERCOME EVIL WITH GOOD

Scripture—Habakkuk.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

WHY DOES evil exist in the world? Why do wicked men and women flourish and the good suffer? Why does God permit God-fearing men and women to go hungry, "ill-clothed, ill-housed and ill-fed," and ruthless, greedy people to have all the necessities and luxuries of life?

These were questions that worried people in Old Testament days more than 2,000 years ago—just as they trouble us of today.

The Prophet Habakkuk, who is thought to have lived during the reign of Jehoiakin—609-597 B. C. —was distressed by it, and decided that trust in God and faith were the answers. Maybe we can reach the same conclusion. Let us study his words:

"The burden which Habakkuk the prophet did see.

"O Jehovah, how long shall I cry, and Thou wilt not hear? I cry out unto Thee of violence, and Thou wilt not save.

"Why dost Thou show me iniquity, and look upon perverseness? for destruction and violence are before me; and there is strife, and contention riseth up.

"Therefore the law is slacked, and justice doth never go forth; for the wicked doth compass about the righteous; therefore justice goeth forth perverted.

"Art not Thou from everlasting, O Jehovah my God, my Holy One? we shall not die. O Jehovah, Thou hast ordained him for judgment; and Thou, O Rock, hast established him for correction."

You see what was happening in Judah when Habakkuk was living—injustice, violence, strife, rivalry, wickedness. Habakkuk did not condemn men; he counted himself one of them. Even right-living men, women and children find it hard to live up to their ideals and always do the things they know are right. Why?

God is omnipotent; why does He not interfere? "How long shall I cry?" asks the prophet. How many of us re-echo the query?

Then Habakkuk decided to "stand upon my watch, and set me upon the tower, and will look forth to see what He will speak with me, and what I shall answer concerning my complaint."

We do not suppose Habakkuk really went to live in a watch tower, which was built to scan the countryside for possible enemies, but he retired to a quiet place where he could think and reason out the problem of life. The illustration accompanying this lesson will show the children what a watch tower was like.

Do children read Pilgrim's Progress any more? This writer did as a child, and still has a copy. In one chapter when Hopeful and Christian were on their way to the Celestial City, Hopeful told Christian that when he was greatly perplexed, the words of Habakkuk came to his mind. They were: "I will stand upon my watch, and set me upon the tower, and will watch to see what He will say unto me."

"And, Jehovah answered me," said Habakkuk, "and said, Write the vision, and make it plain upon tablets, that he may run that readeth it." Not "He who runs may read," but "he may run that readeth it." It surely means that he who reads it should run to tell of the message.

Habakkuk asks what idol worship brings to the worshiper. "Woe unto him that saith to the wood, Awake; to the dumb stone, Arise! Shall this teach? Behold, it is overlaid with gold and silver, and there is no breath at all in the midst of it.

"But Jehovah is in His holy temple: let all the earth keep silent before him."

The result of Habakkuk's meditations was that even though everything was discouraging, or, as he puts it in his poetical language: "For though the fig tree shall not flourish, neither shall fruit be in the vines; the labor of the olive shall fail, and the fields shall yield no food; the flock shall be cut off from the fold, and there shall be no herd in the stalls:

"Yet I will rejoice in Jehovah, I will joy in the God of my salvation.

"Jehovah, the Lord, is my strength; And He maketh my feet like hinds' feet, and will make me to walk upon high places."

If we have the same trust in the goodness and power of God, and do His work of peace and justice upon earth, we too can cease to be too troubled about our contentious world.

4 Vacation Bible School Dates Set

Ashville, Kingston Groups Booked

A quartet of vacation Bible schools will open Monday in Pickaway County.

Trinity Lutheran church of Circleville will sponsor its 25th annual daily vacation Bible school beginning Monday and continuing for three weeks.

The Union Bible school is expected to begin also Monday and continue for about the same period, with classes in First Methodist church.

The Methodist, United Brethren and Lutheran churches of Ashville also will sponsor a Bible school beginning Monday.

Churches in the Kingston community also will open their second daily vacation Bible school at 9 a. m. Monday.

Nearly 170 children from the Ashville community are expected to attend this year's Bible school, which will begin at 8:30 a. m. daily.

The children are to participate in an informal recreation program beginning at 8:30 a. m. every morning, supervised by the Rev. C. A. Holmquist and Mrs. J. E. Courtright.

* * *

AT 9 A. M. THE youngsters will meet in the Methodist church for opening devotional services, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Holmquist, the Rev. A. B. Albertson and the Rev. J. D. Hopper.

The boys and girls will separate into age groups for Bible study until 10:45 a. m., followed by crafts classes. The school will be dismissed at 11:30 a. m. each day.

The Ashville school is scheduled to continue through June 16, closing with a community program.

Supervisers for the Ashville children, in addition to the three pastors, will be Mrs. Courtright, Mrs. Harvey Robey, Mrs. Felix Dore, Mrs. Emerson Dum, Mrs. Lowell Cooper, Belva Lou Eccard, Mrs. J. D. Hopper, Mrs. George Gardner, Mrs. Richard Peters, Mrs. A. B. Albertson, Mrs. Raymond Lindsey, Harold Bickle, Warren Bastian, Mrs. James Carley, Mrs. H. A. Dickinson, Mrs. Ethel Reed, Mrs. Robert Patrick, Max Marion, Mrs. Warren Bastian, Mrs. Siebert Duvall and Mrs. Maynard.

The Kingston Bible school, sponsored jointly by all of the Kingston and surrounding churches, will meet daily in Kingston Methodist church, supervised by the Rev. Charles B. Elkjer.

The school will be held between 9 a. m. and 11:30 a. m. every day through June 16. A special closing program for the public is planned for 7:30 p. m. June 18.

Last year, nearly 150 boys and girls attended the first Kingston Bible school, with an average daily attendance of over 100.

The school features games, stories, crafts classes and Bible study. The school is open to youngsters between the ages of 3 and 14-years-old.

The first cow in the United States was imported to New England in 1624.

Habakkuk Teaches Trust in God

JEHOVAH WILL OVERCOME EVIL WITH GOOD

Scripture—Habakkuk.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

WHY DOES evil exist in the world? Why do wicked men and women flourish and the good suffer? Why does God permit God-fearing men and women to go hungry, "ill-clothed, ill-housed and ill-fed," and ruthless, greedy people to have all the necessities and luxuries of life?

These were questions that worried people in Old Testament days more than 2,000 years ago—just as they trouble us of today.

The Prophet Habakkuk, who is thought to have lived during the reign of Jehoiakin—609-597 B. C.—was distressed by it, and decided that trust in God and faith were the answers. Maybe we can reach the same conclusion. Let us study his words:

"The burden which Habakkuk the prophet did see.

"O Jehovah, how long shall I cry, and Thou wilt not hear? I cry out unto Thee of violence, and Thou wilt not save.

"Why dost Thou show me iniquity, and look upon perverseness? for destruction and violence are before me; and there is strife, and contention riseth up.

"Therefore the law is slacked, and justice doth never go forth; for the wicked doth compass about the righteous; therefore justice goeth forth perverted.

"Art not Thou from everlasting, O Jehovah my God, my Holy One? we shall not die. O Jehovah, Thou hast ordained him for judgment; and Thou, O Rock, hast established him for correction."

You see what was happening in Judah when Habakkuk was living—injustice, violence, strife, rivalry, wickedness. Habakkuk did not condemn men; he counted himself one of them. Even right-living men, women and children find it hard to live up to their ideals and always do the things they know are right. Why?

God is omnipotent; why does He not interfere? "How long shall I cry?" asks the prophet. How many of us re-echo the query?

Then Habakkuk decided to "stand upon my watch, and set me upon the tower, and will look forth to see what He will speak with me, and what I shall answer concerning my complaint."

We do not suppose Habakkuk really went to live in a watch tower, which was built to scan the countryside for possible enemies, but he retired to a quiet place where he could think and reason out the problem of life. The illustration accompanying this lesson will show the children what a watch tower was like.

Do children read Pilgrim's Progress any more? This writer did as a child, and still has a copy. In one chapter when Hopeful and Christian were on their way to the Celestial City, Hopeful told Christian that when he was greatly perplexed, the words of Habakkuk came to his mind. They were: "I will stand upon my watch, and set me upon the tower, and will watch to see what He will say unto me."

"And, Jehovah answered me," said Habakkuk, "and said, Write the vision, and make it plain upon tablets, that he may run that readeth it." Not "He who runs may read," but "he may run that readeth it." It surely means that he who reads it should run to tell of the message.

Habakkuk asks what idol worship brings to the worshiper. "Woe unto him that saith to the wood, Awake; to the dumb stone, Arise! Shall this teach? Behold, it is overlaid with gold and silver, and there is no breath at all in the midst of it.

"But Jehovah is in His holy temple: let all the earth keep silent before him."

The result of Habakkuk's meditations was that even though everything was discouraging, or, as he puts it in his poetical linguage: "For though the fig tree shall not flourish, neither shall fruit be in the vines; the labor of the olive shall fail, and the fields shall yield no food; the flock shall be cut off from the fold, and there shall be no herd in the stalls:

"Yet I will rejoice in Jehovah, I will joy in the God of my salvation.

"Jehovah, the Lord, is my strength; And He maketh my feet like hinds' feet, and will make me to walk upon high places."

If we have the same trust in the goodness and power of God, and do His work of peace and justice upon earth, we too can cease to be too troubled about our contentious world.

ONLY 6 NEW CLAIMS FILED

Pickaway's Employment Picture Growing Bright

The employment picture in Pickaway County took on brighter colors in the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation frame last week.

A statistical report prepared by BUC indicated that only six new claims were filed in the county last week, compared with 11 for the week previous.

Continued claims also were down, the report showed, with 171 listed for last week against 207 for the week before.

Throughout the state for the 12th consecutive week the number of claims filed by workers unemployed for more than one week continued to decline during last week, according to C. C. Thomas, local BUC manager.

The 79,982 such continued claims for the week was a drop of 5,311 under the previous week and 69,964 less than the 149,946 such claims during the week.

Each continued claim represents one week of unemployment. The decline continued in Columbus, Dayton, Toledo, Youngstown and Canton.

* * *

CLAIMS FILED by newly unemployed workers for the week ending May 20 dropped 3,319 from the previous week, reflecting reemployment caused as a result of the resumption of train service after the strike.

A general increase in job placements in all occupational groups was reflected by Ohio State Employment Service figures which showed a total of 22,358 jobs filled during April, Thomas said.

Placements rose for the fourth successive month during April, going 30 per cent above the March total and 18 percent above the same period last year.

At the same time, the number of job applicants registered in the 81 local offices of the BUC dropped five per cent to 200,753 on April 30.

More than three-fourths of the increased placements were concentrated in jobs in domestic service, trade, agriculture, construction and railroads. Placements in manufacturing jobs rose 11 per cent to 5,900. The 16,458 placements in non-manufacturing job opportunities was a 38 percent increase.

Ex-FBI Agent Tipped As New Safety Chief

COLUMBUS, June 2 — There were strong indications today that Former Columbus FBI Agent Donald D. Cook, 36, will be appointed city safety director effective June 16.

Cook is now a special investigator for the National Board of Fire Underwriters. An indefinite leave of absence for him was received Saturday at the office of Mayor James A. Rhodes from the board's New York office.

However, Rhodes' only comment on the appointment was: "It's boiled down to three men."

The story was that if Cook becomes safety director, Police Traffic Bureau Captain Clem R. Owens will be made head of the detective bureau about July 1.

Present Detective Chief Glenn C. Hoffman could retire with 30 years' service or take a different assignment.

Meanwhile, Retiring Safety Director C. C. Cole vacated his office yesterday in favor of Joseph S. Deutschle, who will be acting director until a new safety boss is appointed. Cole resigned May 13 but will stay on the city payroll until June 15.

Rent Control Extension Seen Squeaking By

WASHINGTON, June 2—A compromise rent control bill to continue present federal ceilings for another six months is expected to squeak through the Senate Banking Committee today.

A poll of committee members indicated that the legislation, which is the administration's last hope for retaining federal controls after June 30, may get only a one or two vote margin of approval.

Even though it seems certain that the extension proposal will come out of committee, it faces a highly uncertain fate in both the House and Senate. Final action is expected in both houses before the end of the month, when the present law expires.

The bill expected to win committee support would continue the present law to Dec. 31. Communities would be given the right to get another six months of federal controls by merely asking for them.

The bill drafted by House Banking Chairman Spence, (D) Ky., is slated for House action the week of June 12, with both sides admitting that it's "touch and go."

More Bargains Being Offered

WASHINGTON, June 2 — The Agriculture Department announces its new list of bargain deals in surplus government-held farm commodities for big domestic buyers and for exporters.

A revised list is published monthly and contains such items, in huge amounts, as powdered eggs, Grade A butter, peanuts, corn, potatoes, frozen turkeys, flaxseed and gum rosin—all bought by the government in its price support activities.

The department also says it has sold more than $25 million of these commodities since the program began in January.

7-Mile Tractor 'Bus System' Due In Urbana

URBANA, June 2—There will be tractors everywhere and not a car in sight at the Sept. 12 and 13 National Plowing Matches in Urbana.

The National Conservation Field Days committee has planned a 200-tractor "conveyor belt" to transport spectators from one exhibit to another on the 2150-acre farm event.

The tractors, pulling farm wagons, will move continually along seven-mile network of exhibits.

An hour and a half hour sitting will permit visitors to see all the demonstrations.

If they want to get off and walk around before continuing they can just wait for the next bus—oops, tractor.

ONLY 6 NEW CLAIMS FILED

Pickaway's Employment Picture Growing Bright

The employment picture in Pickaway County took on brighter colors in the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation frame last week.

A statistical report prepared by BUC indicated that only six new claims were filed in the county last week, compared with 11 for the week previous.

Continued claims also were down, the report showed, with 171 listed for last week against 207 for the week before.

Throughout the state for the 12th consecutive week the number of claims filed by workers unemployed for more than one week continued to decline during last week, according to C. C. Thomas, local BUC manager.

The 79,982 such continued claims for the week was a drop of 5,311 under the previous week and 69,964 less than the 149,946 such claims during the week.

Each continued claim represents one week of unemployment. The decline continued in Columbus, Dayton, Toledo, Youngstown and Canton.

* * *

CLAIMS FILED by newly unemployed workers for the week ending May 20 dropped 3,319 from the previous week, reflecting reemployment caused as a result of the resumption of train service after the strike.

A general increase in job placements in all occupational groups was reflected by Ohio State Employment Service figures which showed a total of 22,358 jobs filled during April, Thomas said.

Placements rose for the fourth successive month during April, going 30 per cent above the March total and 18 percent above the same period last year.

At the same time, the number of job applicants registered in the 81 local offices of the BUC dropped five per cent to 200,753 on April 30.

More than three-fourths of the increased placements were concentrated in jobs in domestic service, trade, agriculture, construction and railroads. Placements in manufacturing jobs rose 11 per cent to 5,900. The 16,458 placements in non-manufacturing job opportunities was a 38 percent increase.

Ex-FBI Agent Tipped As New Safety Chief

COLUMBUS, June 2 — There were strong indications today that Former Columbus FBI Agent Donald D. Cook, 36, will be appointed city safety director effective June 16.

Cook is now a special investigator for the National Board of Fire Underwriters. An indefinite leave of absence for him was received Saturday at the office of Mayor James A. Rhodes from the board's New York office.

However, Rhodes' only comment on the appointment was:

"It's boiled down to three men."

The story was that if Cook becomes safety director, Police Traffic Bureau Captain Clem R. Owens will be made head of the detective bureau about July 1.

Present Detective Chief Glenn C. Hoffman could retire with 30 years' service or take a different assignment.

Meanwhile, Retiring Safety Director C. C. Cole vacated his office yesterday in favor of Joseph S. Deutschle, who will be acting director until a new safety boss is appointed. Cole resigned May 13 but will stay on the city payroll until June 15.

Rent Control Extension Seen Squeaking By

WASHINGTON, June 2—A compromise rent control bill to continue present federal ceilings for another six months is expected to squeak through the Senate Banking Committee today.

A poll of committee members indicated that the legislation, which is the administration's last hope for retaining federal controls after June 30, may get only a one or two vote margin of approval.

Even though it seems certain that the extension proposal will come out of committee, it faces a highly uncertain fate in both the House and Senate. Final action is expected in both houses before the end of the month, when the present law expires.

The bill expected to win committee support would continue the present law to Dec. 31. Communities would be given the right to get another six months of federal controls by merely asking for them.

The bill drafted by House Banking Chairman Spence, (D) Ky., is slated for House action the week of June 12, with both sides admitting that it's "touch and go."

More Bargains Being Offered

WASHINGTON, June 2 — The Agriculture Department announces its new list of bargain deals in surplus government-held farm commodities for big domestic buyers and for exporters.

A revised list is published monthly and contains such items, in huge amounts, as powdered eggs, Grade A butter, peanuts, corn, potatoes, frozen turkeys, flaxseed and gum rosin—all bought by the government in its price support activities.

The department also says it has sold more than $25 million of these commodities since the program began in January.

TERMITES

Cause damage in excess of fifty million dollars annually for REPAIRS alone. These destructive pests work in secret and may be destroying your property NOW. Have it inspected by an expert and be sure. There is no charge for the inspection, and if your property is not infested they will tell you so. If termites are present you will be SHOWN and a fair price quoted for a treatment which is guaranteed for TEN YEARS.

Many irresponsible amateurs—self-styled "exterminators" and "part time" entomologists offer fantastic "guarantees" and bargain prices, but you owe it to yourself to be SURE you are securing the services of a thoroughly reliable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company whose guarantee really has a meaning.

An effective termite treatment must not only eliminate the termites now present in the structure, but also prevent the countless thousands of others, who live in the GROUND outside the house, from returning.

The almost unbelievable cunning of the termite makes the successful treatment of your property a job for those who have the proper equipment and the KNOW HOW. Further, because of the termites tenacity and persistence it is sometimes impossible to completely exterminate them with ONE treatment. Therefore it is vital that the company doing the job be AVAILABLE later to return if necessary. Unless you are SURE of this fact you may find yourself with a "Guarantee" but no one STILL IN BUSINESS to MAKE GOOD.

Always remember—a guarantee is only as good as the man who gives it.

We are local representatives of a reputable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company who are ACCREDITED MEMBERS OF THE OHIO PEST CONTROL ASSOCIATION.

Ike Williams Set For Bout

DETROIT, June 2—Lightweight Champion Ike Williams takes on Detroit's Lester Felton in a 10-round over-the-weight match in the Motor City tonight.

The bout marks Williams' first appearance since he won a split decision over John L. Davis in Seattle early in March.

The 21-year-old Felton, Detroit's most promising young fighter, decisioned Tuzo (Kid) Portuguez his last time out.

Williams is a slight favorite in the betting, although he'll give away about five pounds. He's expected to weigh in at around 142, with Felton tipping the scales near the 147-pound mark.

Sokolsky's

Our State Department pursued a China policy after the Yalta Conference to please Russia, but they never expected the consequence that came from their policy, because they believed in the integrity of Russia—a nation which has not lived up to a single agreement or treaty composed between us.

Therefore, it is not a matter of choice. This country, for better or worse, is being forced into a militaristic position by the course of events. We are much as Japan was between 1905 and 1931.

Most Japanese hated war and they despised their own militarists, but it was as clear to them, as the events eventually proved, that Russia would seek to take Manchuria, and that country, once conquered, would imperil the whole of Eastern Asia. They had to desert the progress of their land to concentrate on defense. I recall conversing with top leaders of Japan as far back as 1923 who realized then the historical desperation of their situation.

We need to think our problems out now if we are to survive. And we need to think straight, for the enemy will take advantage of our every error.

HE IS LUCKLESS CHAP

Ted Williams' Welcome Said Worn Out In Boston

NEW YORK, June 2—Ted Williams denies that he will ask to be traded at the end of this season, but if the Boston fans continue to throw fruit and insults at him he very well may seek other pastures his wonders to perform.

Williams has worn out his welcome in Boston. He is a drawing card at home and abroad, but his recent insults directed at Boston fans overstepped the bounds to the point where he no longer is an asset.

A prominent athlete operates under the burden of being an example to the youth of America and once he loses sight of this, his value begins to depreciate.

Babe Ruth got away with almost incredible escapades off the ball field, but respected his obligation to the fans who paid his salary.

Ty Cobb was a terror on and off the field, a reprehensible fellow in many ways, but most of his difficulties stemmed from his lust for battle.

Williams is in the unfortunate position of being a player sometimes accused of loafing, often accused of not being a team player and now burdened by the charge that he, on top of all that, can't properly conduct himself on the ball field.

* * *

THE FELLOW is singularly luckless. He is a far nicer guy than his present predicament would indicate, but he helped to bring it on himself and the result very well may be his moving to another club.

It may be that Williams is being badly advised for publicity purposes. Whatever is behind his most recent nonsense it reflects adversely on him.

Jimmy Cannon of the New York Post, a reputable and competent reporter, wrote his column yesterday around the emphatic statement that he knew positively that Williams wants to get out of Boston.

Maybe Cannon is wrong. The point is and was that Williams has said in the past that he wanted to be traded, only to switch upon reflection to the assertion that he wanted to spend his remaining baseball days in Boston.

It so happens that Williams currently is in one of the worst hitting slumps of his career. It is inconceivable that he should be down around .280, and, according to Cannon, he attributes his plight to his difficulties with the Boston fans.

A change to another club thus undoubtedly would do him good, if another club will accept the possible results of his appearances in the home park. Williams, unfortunately again, has a way of shoving fans into enmity, instead of making friends of them.

He still will draw crowds. Some pay to boo him and some pay to watch him as a slugger. Probably a few stay away from the park because they can't tolerate the sight of him.

Hogan Likes Demaret In Open

MERION, Pa., June 2—Jim Demaret has singled out today by Bantam Ben Hogan as the man to beat in the National Open golf championship next week over the Merion course.

Although Hogan did not rule himself out as a repeat winner in this year's golden jubilee tourney, he figures the field will have to keep a sharp lookout for his fellow Texan, whom he thinks has a better chance of winning than Sammy Snead, another popular choice.

Local Stallion Entered In Show

Fire Fly Rex, five-gaited stallion owned by Circleville Baker Ed Wallace, has been entered in the third annual Jackson County horse show this Sunday.

Rex is entered against two other stallions in the (any age) five-gaited stallion class, one of the 25 events on the card.

The show will begin at about 1 p. m. Sunday in Wellston, and Wallace's Rex will probably perform at about 2 p. m.

TERMITES

Cause damage in excess of fifty million dollars annually for REPAIRS alone. These destructive pests work in secret and may be destroying your property NOW. Have it inspected by an expert and be sure. There is no charge for the inspection, and if your property is not infested they will tell you so. If termites are present you will be SHOWN and a fair price quoted for a treatment which is guaranteed for TEN YEARS.

Many irresponsible amateurs—self-styled "exterminators" and "part time" entomologists offer fantastic "guarantees" and bargain prices, but you owe it to yourself to be SURE you are securing the services of a thoroughly reliable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company whose guarantee really has a meaning.

An effective termite treatment must not only eliminate the termites now present in the structure, but also prevent the countless thousands of others, who live in the GROUND outside the house, from returning.

The almost unbelievable cunning of the termite makes the successful treatment of your property a job for those who have the proper equipment and the KNOW HOW. Further, because of the termites tenacity and persistence it is sometimes impossible to completely exterminate them with ONE treatment. Therefore it is vital that the company doing the job be AVAILABLE later to return if necessary. Unless you are SURE of this fact you may find yourself with a "Guarantee" but no one STILL IN BUSINESS to MAKE GOOD.

Always remember—a guarantee is only as good as the man who gives it.

We are local representatives of a reputable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company who are ACCREDITED MEMBERS OF THE OHIO PEST CONTROL ASSOCIATION.

Ike Williams Set For Bout

DETROIT, June 2—Lightweight Champion Ike Williams takes on Detroit's Lester Felton in a 10-round over-the-weight match in the Motor City tonight.

The bout marks Williams' first appearance since he won a split decision over John L. Davis in Seattle early in March.

The 21-year-old Felton, Detroit's most promising young fighter, decisioned Tuzo (Kid) Portuguez his last time out.

Williams is a slight favorite in the betting, although he'll give away about five pounds. He's expected to weigh in at around 142, with Felton tipping the scales near the 147-pound mark.

Sokolsky's

Our State Department pursued a China policy after the Yalta Conference to please Russia, but they never expected the consequence that came from their policy, because they believed in the integrity of Russia—a nation which has not lived up to a single agreement or treaty composed between us.

Therefore, it is not a matter of choice. This country, for better or worse, is being forced into a militaristic position by the course of events. We are much as Japan was between 1905 and 1931.

Most Japanese hated war and they despised their own militarists, but it was as clear to them, as the events eventually proved, that Russia would seek to take Manchuria, and that country, once conquered, would imperil the whole of Eastern Asia. They had to desert the progress of their land to concentrate on defense. I recall conversing with top leaders of Japan as far back as 1923 who realized then the historical desperation of their situation.

We need to think our problems out now if we are to survive. And we need to think straight, for the enemy will take advantage of our every error.

HE IS LUCKLESS CHAP

Ted Williams' Welcome Said Worn Out In Boston

NEW YORK, June 2—Ted Williams denies that he will ask to be traded at the end of this season, but if the Boston fans continue to throw fruit and insults at him he very well may seek other pastures his wonders to perform.

Williams has worn out his welcome in Boston. He is a drawing card at home and abroad, but his recent insults directed at Boston fans overstepped the bounds to the point where he no longer is an asset.

A prominent athlete operates under the burden of being an example to the youth of America and once he loses sight of this, his value begins to depreciate.

Babe Ruth got away with almost incredible escapades off the ball field, but respected his obligation to the fans who paid his salary.

Ty Cobb was a terror on and off the field, a reprehensible fellow in many ways, but most of his difficulties stemmed from his lust for battle.

Williams is in the unfortunate position of being a player sometimes accused of loafing, often accused of not being a team player and now burdened by the charge that he, on top of all that, can't properly conduct himself on the ball field.

* * *

THE FELLOW is singularly luckless. He is a far nicer guy than his present predicament would indicate, but he helped to bring it on himself and the result very well may be his moving to another club.

It may be that Williams is being badly advised for publicity purposes. Whatever is behind his most recent nonsense it reflects adversely on him.

Jimmy Cannon of the New York Post, a reputable and competent reporter, wrote his column yesterday around the emphatic statement that he knew positively that Williams wants to get out of Boston.

Maybe Cannon is wrong. The point is and was that Williams has said in the past that he wanted to be traded, only to switch upon reflection to the assertion that he wanted to spend his remaining baseball days in Boston.

It so happens that Williams currently is in one of the worst hitting slumps of his career. It is inconceivable that he should be down around .280, and, according to Cannon, he attributes his plight to his difficulties with the Boston fans.

A change to another club thus undoubtedly would do him good, if another club will accept the possible results of his appearances in the home park. Williams, unfortunately again, has a way of shoving fans into enmity, instead of making friends of them.

He still will draw crowds. Some pay to boo him and some pay to watch him as a slugger. Probably a few stay away from the park because they can't tolerate the sight of him.

Hogan Likes Demaret In Open

MERION, Pa., June 2—Jim Demaret has singled out today by Bantam Ben Hogan as the man to beat in the National Open golf championship next week over the Merion course.

Although Hogan did not rule himself out as a repeat winner in this year's golden jubilee tourney, he figures the field will have to keep a sharp lookout for his fellow Texan, whom he thinks has a better chance of winning than Sammy Snead, another popular choice.

Local Stallion Entered In Show

Fire Fly Rex, five-gaited stallion owned by Circleville Baker Ed Wallace, has been entered in the third annual Jackson County horse show this Sunday.

Rex is entered against two other stallions in the (any age) five-gaited stallion class, one of the 25 events on the card.

The show will begin at about 1 p. m. Sunday in Wellston, and Wallace's Rex will probably perform at about 2 p. m.

Cardinals Sneak Up On 'Dem Bums

Birds Now Tied With Brooklyn

NEW YORK, June 2 — Those old, so-called played-out St. Louis Cardinals still can step with the best of the National League's young fry, that's for sure.

The methodical Redbirds edged into the picture the other day while the youthful Brooklyn Dodgers and the Philadelphia Phillies staged a war for first place.

St. Louis sneaked into second place a game behind victorious Brooklyn and bided its time. Last night the Cardinals struck and today they are at that same old stand, tied gamewise and percentage-wise with the Dodgers.

It remained for Marty Marion, the veteran shortstop whose durability was questioned in preseason forecasts, to settle the issue that gave the Cardinals and Howie Pollet a 5 to 2 victory over the Dodgers.

Marty staggered Preacher Roe and the Brooks with a grand slam homer in the sixth inning—the first jackpot homer in the brilliant 11-year career of Mr. Shortstop.

• • •

POLLET'S FIVE hitter gained him his fourth win. He yielded two runs on a double by Jackie Robinson in the third.

Philadelphia kept breathing hot and heavy on the necks of the two pace-setters by whipping the Chicago Cubs, 8 to 4. Curt Simmons, who got help from Jim Konstanty, registered his seventh win.

The Pittsburgh Pirates tried everything, including the use of First Baseman Jack Phillips as a pitcher, but the Boston Braves beat them, 14 to 2, for the Bucs' ninth straight loss.

Sid Gordon clubbed his ninth homer, a grand slammer in the first inning, and Bob Elliott also hit his ninth with one on in the third.

The Cincinnati Reds and the New York Giants split a twinight doubleheader. The Giants came through with a four-run ninth inning to win the opener, 8 to 7. Hank Thompson hit a grand-slammer for the Durochermen earlier in the game. The nightcap went to the Reds, 5 to 2, behind Ewell Blackwell.

The New York Yankees increased their American League lead to 3½ games by staging an uphill battle against the Chicago White Sox, to win 6 to 5 in the tenth inning last night.

The Yankees scored twice in the ninth off Starter Bill Pierce and Bill Wight to tie the game up. Jerry Coleman's single and Marv Rickert's error in centerfield permitted Hank Bauer to score the winning run. Joe Page, who came into the game in the tenth, was the winner.

The St. Louis Browns nosed out the Washington Senators, 5 to 4, in 12 innings in the only other game played. The Boston-Cleveland, Detroit-Philadelphia games were rained out.

Reds To Play In Grove City

Ashville Reds baseball team will try for its fourth win in as many starts in Heart of Ohio League competition Sunday when it invades Taggart's in Grove City.

The Reds, pace setters for the HOL loop, earlier were scheduled to host the game. The contest, top feature of the league schedule this week, is slated to begin at about 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

Starkey Gets Wisconsin 'Offer;' Sandy Hill Still Says Nothing

Big Jim Starkey, one of the top-ranking Circleville championship football and basketball team players this year, left Friday for a look-see at the University of Wisconsin.

Big Jim, nearly 200 pounds of left end in football and high scorer as forward on Circleville high school's basketball team, reportedly has received a bid from the Wisconsin school.

Starkey left Friday for a four-day trip to Wisconsin's campus to dicker with the university athletic heads.

Meanwhile, Sandy Hill rapidly is becoming the focal point of attention for local sports fans as the college bids become more frenzied.

Sandy, the outstanding football player in Ohio last Fall as he set the new individual scoring record in Class A competition, has a four-bell approach toward college favor in football, two bells in baseball and a stroke in basketball.

• • •

HILL PASSED, punted, kicked extra points and ran—and ran—through the limelight of statewide stardom during the football season, while his lightning reflexes at times gave him a record of better than average basketball player.

In addition, Sandy scores two bells in baseball, playing not only a creditable second base but also jettisoning his second base duties to turn in stellar performances in the role of pitcher.

The compact speedster already has been swamped with "big name"—and not such "big name"—college bids, according tc reports, and true to form for the outstanding athlete completing high school has only to reach out and pluck the proferred scholastic plum.

However, the big question apparently is not whether Sandy will choose a big school or little school. At present, the one big block in the whole business is:

"Does Sandy want to go to college?"

Sandy himself is foggy on the question of whether he will make the jump.

The versatile athlete — some say give Sandy a uniform and he will star in any sport, any position—now is putting his time in by successfully twirling softball in the Circleville Night Softball League for Scioto Elks.

Indians Fall Again Under Colonel Attack

COLUMBUS, June 2 — That slipping, sliding sound you heard was the league leading Indianapolis Indians who just went down to their ninth defeat in their last 11 American Association games.

The Louisville Colonels pounded the Redskins yesterday with a 10-6 victory, making it four straight in their home-and-home series with the gentlemen from Indiana.

It also was a bad day for the second-ranked Minneapolis Millers who were crushed 16-6 by Kansas City.

Columbus managed to hang onto fourth spot in the league by splitting a twin bill with cellar-dwelling Toledo. The Redbirds lost the opener 2-0, but came back in the nightcap to win 6-4.

St. Paul just doubled Milwaukee's six tallies to win in a walk.

Returning to those miraculous Colonels, they started out with a run in the first then added five more on five hits in the second. That was enough for Indian Starter Johnny McCall.

It looked like a close thing in the Indian half of the second as Indianapolis roared back with four runs on five hits, sending Jack Robinson to the showers.

However, Hamp Coleman capably took over the the Colonels who picked up two more runs in the fifth, another in the sixth and the final tally of the game in the eighth. The two remaining Indian tallies came in the seventh.

Johnny Hopp Slugging Hard For An Old Man

PITTSBURGH, June 2 — You can't do any better at the plate than Johnny Hopp—unless your name is Stan Musial.

Only Musial is hitting the ball oftener and better than Pittsburgh's old pro who is making his eleventh full season in the National League his best. Hopp currently has a .380 plus average. Musial is over the .400 hump.

Although his superlative batting hasn't hoisted the Pirates out of the second division, if he weren't in there Pittsburgh's rapid sojourn to nowhere in the National League might have been accomplished with jet-like speed.

Hit hitting, base-running and fielding at first base helped to delay the drop for a month. It's surprising how often a guy who will be 34 next month can beat out drag bunts down the foul lines and zoom from first to third like a youngster.

Last month he pulled a leg muscle in Boston and missed playing regularly for about a week, but he picked up several base knocks as a pinch-hitter. There are few better at that role than the speedboy from Hastings, Neb.

Oilers Swamp Hardware Team

A first inning deluge of runs boosted Circleville Oil softball team to a 12-3 victory over Harpster and Yost.

The Oilers landed on the hardware team with both feet in the first frame to tally 10 runs, while adding the final two runs in later innings.

Box score of the contest was not made available. Schedule for next week's softball loop schedule has not been announced by President Harry "Bo" Wellington.

Cop, Ex-Mayor Head North To Avenge Record

Police Officer Turney Ross and Ex-Mayor Bill Cady have a challenge. . . .from a woman angler, at that.

The two men, along with their wives, have left for Goulais River, Ontario, on a two-week fishing trip.

Their objective — to catch larger fish than will their women folk.

Seems that last year, Mrs. Ross showed them all up.

She snagged a 15-pound Great Northern and the men have not forgotten.

The Ross-Cady trek northward started early Friday.

Next week, another couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stout will show up in the Goulais River area as Stout, who has just announced his retirement after 30-odd years in the automobile business, starts his annual vacation.

They are to be joined later by Mr. and Mrs. Jay Clark, now of Illinois, and formerly of Circleville.

Nottingham Delco Grabs Feature

CHICAGO, June 2—Nottingham Delco won both heats of the $1,500 divided pace feature at Maywood Park last night before 5,083 fans.

The pacer whipped Roy Chenault and Ruth Adam in the six-furlong first heat, covering the distance in 1:34-2-5.

In the mile second heat, Nottingham Delco won in 2:09 4-5 while Beaver Hal took second and Roy Chenault slipped to third.

Cardinals Sneak Up On Dem Bums

Birds Now Tied With Brooklyn

NEW YORK, June 2 — Those old, so-called played-out St. Louis Cardinals still can step with the best of the National League's young fry, that's for sure.

The methodical Redbirds edged into the picture the other day while the youthful Brooklyn Dodgers and the Philadelphia Phillies staged a war for first place.

St. Louis sneaked into second place a game behind victorious Brooklyn and bided its time. Last night the Cardinals struck and today they are at that same old stand, tied gamewise and percentage-wise with the Dodgers.

It remained for Marty Marion, the veteran shortstop whose durability was questioned in preseason forecasts, to settle the issue that gave the Cardinals and Howie Pollet a 5 to 2 victory over the Dodgers.

Marty staggered Preacher Roe and the Brooks with a grand slam homer in the sixth inning—the first jackpot homer in the brilliant 11-year career of Mr. Shortstop.

* *

POLLET'S FIVE hitter gained him his fourth win. He yielded two runs on a double by Jackie Robinson in the third.

Philadelphia kept breathing hot and heavy on the necks of the two pace-setters by whipping the Chicago Cubs, 8 to 4. Curt Simmons, who got help from Jim Konstanty, registered his seventh win.

The Pittsburgh Pirates tried everything, including the use of First Baseman Jack Phillips as a pitcher, but the Boston Braves beat them, 14 to 2, for the Bucs' ninth straight loss.

Sid Gordon clubbed his ninth homer, a grand slammer in the first inning, and Bob Elliott also hit his ninth with one on in the third.

The Cincinnati Reds and the New York Giants split a twinight doubleheader. The Giants came through with a four-run ninth inning to win the opener, 8 to 7. Hank Thompson hit a grandslammer for the Durochermen earlier in the game. The nightcap went to the Reds, 5 to 2, behind Ewell Blackwell.

The New York Yankees increased their American League lead to 3½ games by staging an uphill battle against the Chicago White Sox, to win 6 to 5 in the tenth inning last night.

The Yankees scored twice in the ninth off Starter Bill Pierce and Bill Wight to tie the game up. Jerry Coleman's single and Marv Rickert's error in centerfield permitted Hank Bauer to score the winning run. Joe Page, who came into the game in the tenth, was the winner.

The St. Louis Browns nosed out the Washington Senators, 5 to 4, in 12 innings in the only other game played. The Boston-Cleveland, Detroit-Philadelphia games were rained out.

Reds To Play In Grove City

Ashville Reds baseball team will try for its fourth win in as many starts in Heart of Ohio League competition Sunday when it invades Taggart's in Grove City.

The Reds, pace setters for the HOL loop, earlier were scheduled to host the game. The contest, top feature of the league schedule this week, is slated to begin at about 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

Starkey Gets Wisconsin 'Offer;' Sandy Hill Still Says Nothing

Big Jim Starkey, one of the top-ranking Circleville championship football and basketball team players this year, left Friday for a look-see at the University of Wisconsin.

Big Jim, nearly 200 pounds of left end in football and high scorer as forward on Circleville high school's basketball team, reportedly has received a bid from the Wisconsin school.

Starkey left Friday for a four-day trip to Wisconsin's campus to dicker with the university athletic heads.

Meanwhile, Sandy Hill rapidly is becoming the focal point of attention for local sports fans as the college bids become more frenzied.

Sandy, the outstanding football player in Ohio last Fall as he set the new individual scoring record in Class A competition, has a four-bell approach toward college favor in football, two bells in baseball and a stroke in basketball.

* * *

HILL PASSED, punted, kicked extra points and ran—and ran—through the limelight of statewide stardom during the football season, while his lightning reflexes at times gave him a record of better than average basketball player.

In addition, Sandy scores two bells in baseball, playing not only a creditable second base but also jettisoning his second base duties to turn in stellar performances in the role of pitcher.

The compact speedster already has been swamped with "big name"—and not such "big name"—college bids, according to reports, and true to form for the outstanding athlete completing high school has only to reach out and pluck the proferred scholastic plum.

However, the big question apparently is not whether Sandy will choose a big school or little school. At present, the one big block in the whole business is:

"Does Sandy want to go to college?"

Sandy himself is foggy on the question of whether he will make the jump.

The versatile athlete — some say give Sandy a uniform and he will star in any sport, any position—now is putting his time in by successfully twirling softball in the Circleville Night Softball League for Scioto Elks.

Indians Fall Again Under Colonel Attack

COLUMBUS, June 2 — That slipping, sliding sound you heard was the league leading Indianapolis Indians who just went down to their ninth defeat in their last 11 American Association games.

The Louisville Colonels pounded the Redskins yesterday with a 10-6 victory, making it four straight in their home-and-home series with the gentlemen from Indiana.

It also was a bad day for the second-ranked Minneapolis Millers who were crushed 16-6 by Kansas City.

Columbus managed to hang onto fourth spot in the league by splitting a twin bill with cellar-dwelling Toledo. The Redbirds lost the opener 2-0, but came back in the nightcap to win 6-4.

St. Paul just doubled Milwaukee's six tallies to win in a walk.

Returning to those miraculous Colonels, they started out with a run in the first then added five more on five hits in the second. That was enough for Indian Starter Johnny McCall.

It looked like a close thing in the Indian half of the second as Indianapolis roared back with four runs on five hits, sending Jack Robinson to the showers.

However, Hamp Coleman capably took over the the Colonels who picked up two more runs in the fifth, another in the sixth and the final tally of the game in the eighth. The two remaining Indian tallies came in the seventh.

Johnny Hopp Slugging Hard For An Old Man

PITTSBURGH, June 2 — You can't do any better at the plate than Johnny Hopp—unless your name is Stan Musial.

Only Musial is hitting the ball oftener and better than Pittsburgh's old pro who is making his eleventh full season in the National League his best. Hopp currently has a .380 plus average. Musial is over the .400 hump.

Although his superlative batting hasn't hoisted the Pirates out of the second division, if he weren't in there Pittsburgh's rapid sojourn to nowhere in the National League might have been accomplished with jet-like speed.

Hit hitting, base-running and fielding at first base helped to delay the drop for a month. It's surprising how often a guy who will be 34 next month can beat out drag bunts down the foul lines and zoom from first to third like a youngster.

Last month he pulled a leg muscle in Boston and missed playing regularly for about a week, but he picked up several base knocks as a pinch-hitter. There are few better at that role than the speedboy from Hastings, Neb.

Oilers Swamp Hardware Team

A first inning deluge of runs boosted Circleville Oil softball team to a 12-3 victory over Harpster and Yost.

The Oilers landed on the hardware team with both feet in the first frame to tally 10 runs, while adding the final two runs in later innings.

Box score of the contest was not made available. Schedule for next week's softball loop schedule has not been announced by President Harry "Bo" Wellington.

Cop, Ex-Mayor Head North To Avenge Record

Police Officer Turney Ross and Ex-Mayor Bill Cady have a challenge. . . .from a woman angler, at that.

The two men, along with their wives, have left for Goulais River, Ontario, on a two-week fishing trip.

Their objective — to catch larger fish than will their women folk.

Seems that last year, Mrs. Ross showed them all up.

She snagged a 15-pound Great Northern and the men have not forgotten.

The Ross-Cady trek northward started early Friday.

Next week, another couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stout will show up in the Goulais River area as Stout, who has just announced his retirement after 30-odd years in the automobile business, starts his annual vacation.

They are to be joined later by Mr. and Mrs. Jay Clark, now of Illinois, and formerly of Circleville.

Nottingham Delco Grabs Feature

CHICAGO, June 2—Nottingham Delco won both heats of the $1,500 divided pace feature at Maywood Park last night before 5,083 fans.

The pacer whipped Roy Chenault and Ruth Adam in the six-furlong first heat, covering the distance in 1:34-2-5.

In the mile second heat, Nottingham Delco won in 2:09 4-5 while Beaver Hal took second and Roy Chenault slipped to third.

CHRYSLER automobiles, along with the complete Plymouth line, now are being sold in Pickaway county by Wes Edstrom, formerly wholesale parts manager for Merrick - Miller, Dodge - Plymouth dealer, Columbus. Mr. Edstrom has taken over the J. H. Stout dealership, 150 East Main street, and is continuing the business without interruption.

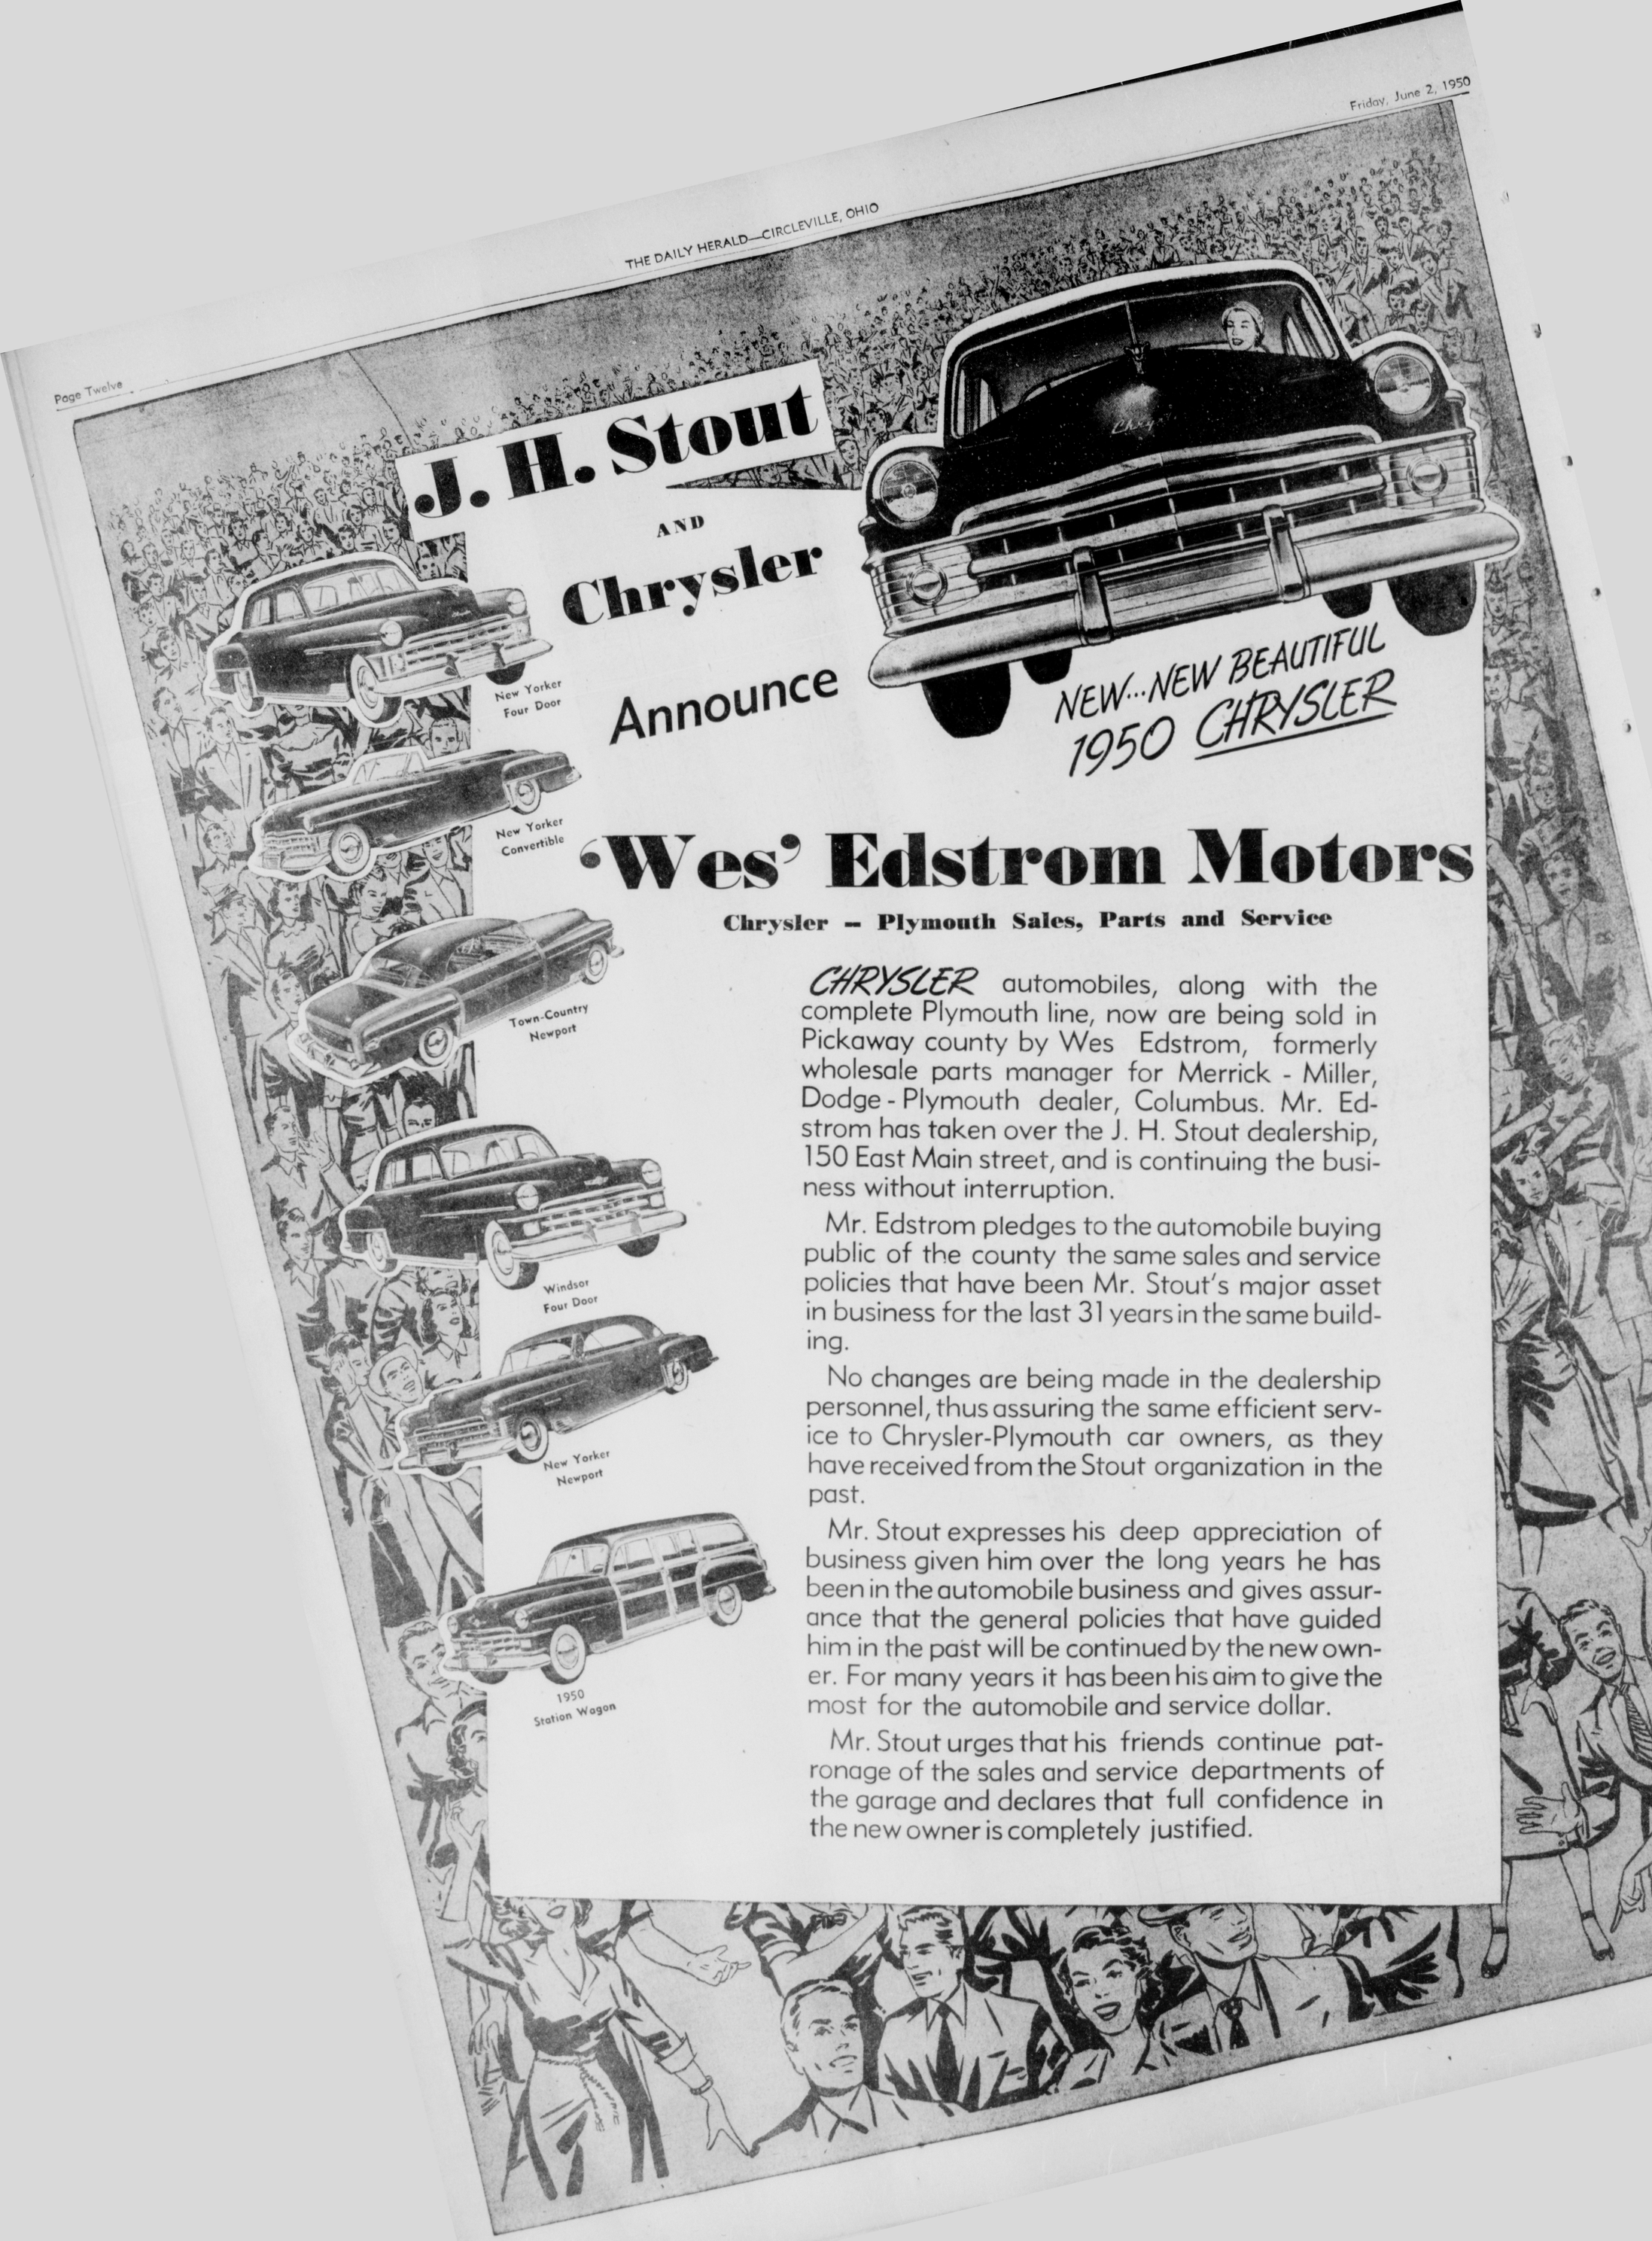

Mr. Edstrom pledges to the automobile buying public of the county the same sales and service policies that have been Mr. Stout's major asset in business for the last 31 years in the same building.

No changes are being made in the dealership personnel, thus assuring the same efficient service to Chrysler-Plymouth car owners, as they have received from the Stout organization in the past.

Mr. Stout expresses his deep appreciation of business given him over the long years he has been in the automobile business and gives assurance that the general policies that have guided him in the past will be continued by the new owner. For many years it has been his aim to give the most for the automobile and service dollar.

Mr. Stout urges that his friends continue patronage of the sales and service departments of the garage and declares that full confidence in the new owner is completely justified.
